HEBRON BANK JOB LOOT RECOVERED

DRAG NET IS SPREAD FOR TWO SUSPECTS

Men Declared to Have Committed Robbery Escaped From South Dakota Jail

MONEY IN GRANARY

Men Identified as Those Having Entered Stores in Sterling, Burleigh Co.

Approximately $5,000 in loot stolen from the Farmers State Bank of Hebron on August 18 was recovered in an isolated granary nine miles south of McLaughlin, S. D. and officials through the reservation country today have spread a drag-net which is expected to lead to the arrest of the two men alleged to have blown the safe of the bank.

The men sought, alleged to have been identified as the robbers, are Fred Rover and Theodore Dvorak. They escaped jail at McIntosh, South Dakota, last week where they are held for robbing a store at Lawler, S. D.

The loot was brought to Mandan last night by Sheriff Charles McDonald of Mandan. It included: four $100 Liberty Bonds, one $50 Liberty Bond, $3,800 in American Bankers Association Travelers' checks, notes aggregating $3,700, non-negotiable, and approximately $700 in ten and twenty dollar bills which were so badly torn by the charge of dynamite which was used to blow the safe that they were non-usable.

Operations Checked

A check of operations is said to identify the men as the parties having robbed a store at Lawler, S. D., a gasoline station at McKenzie and entered stores at Sterling, N. D.

A farmer entering his granary in Corns county, South Dakota, for the purpose of cleaning it out preparatory to storing grain saw boxes of the kind used for keeping money. He notified authorities. A search revealed the loot from the Hebron bank.

The two men had been arrested for another robbery of a hardware store and had indicated their willingness to plead guilty. They were lodged in the flimsy country jail and escaped. Since they did not have an automobile it is believed they escaped on a train and are still in the reservation country. A shot-gun which had been stolen at Lawler, fixed their guilt for the job.

The men had given Butte, Montana, as their home. The car they had was a heavy type Oldsmobile which they admitted having stolen in Miles City, Montana. In it were found tracks of the kind used to stop pursuers after the Glen Ullin bank robbery.

No Connection

Sheriff McDonald said there was no connection with the Hebron job and the attempted robbery of a bank in Glen Ullin. The latter job, he said, was probably done by three men, one an ex-convict from the North Dakota penitentiary, who left Mandan the day of the robbery.

For the past ten days the Hebron gang has been working between Bowman, N. D. and Lemmon, S. D.

SHORT CHANGE PLAN CHARGED

Two Men Held by the Local Police Alleged Attempt To Defraud

Two men are held by the local police, alleged, to have tried to short-change two Bismarck merchants. A charge of disorderly conduct was preferred against them by Chief Martinson and Police Magistrate Cashman for the $15 each and sentenced them to 30 days in jail each.

One of the men, it is alleged by police, would go into a store, make a small purchase and present a twenty dollar bill. When the change was being handed back to him he would extract a ten dollar bill and then claim the merchant had not given him the right change.

The men gave their names as W. R. McDuffy of Cherokee, Ia. and J. J. Walker of Waco, Texas. They had been with the carnival that was at the Mandan fair, the police say.

FARMERS LOSE FIGURES SHOW

Cost of Production, Above Sales Price of Products

Washington, Sept. 5.—Reports compiled by the department of agriculture from 4,000 farmers in all parts of the country show an average production cost in 1923 for wheat of $1.23 a bushel, for corn 66 cents and for oats 53 cents. Against these figures the average sale price realized on the crop was $1.11 for wheat, 73 cents for corn and 48 cents for oats. The department added that it felt the figures closely approximate the average production costs incurred by farmers throughout the country during the period covered.

GERMANY HAS LOST FIGHT IN RUHR, REPORT

Declared at End of Her String in Passive Resistance Policy Against French

MAY SEEK FOR PEACE

Likely to Take Initiative Toward Proposing Official Discussions

(By the Associated Press.)

Berlin, Sept. 5.—Germany has arrived at the end of tether so far as her further ability to finance passive resistance is concerned. This is the current impression in banking circles which expect Germany in the next few days to take the initiative toward proposing that official discussions be begun with the French and Belgian governments.

That the Ruhr and the Rhineland fight has been lost by the government and the army economic conditions are also tacitly admitted in political circles, although the press has not yet discussed the situation with which the government is confronted. It is believed, however, that the German editors have been informed by Chancellor Stresemann, that the government would seek to force a solution of the Ruhr conflict in the near future.

The situation in the occupied areas also is steadily becoming worse both in respect to economic conditions and the temper of the resistors who no longer are able to maintain the solidarity necessary for a united front.

R. E. WENZELL IS APPOINTED TO RISK BODY

Grand Forks Man to be Representative of Employers on State Board

R. E. Wenzell of Grand Forks today was appointed a commissioner of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau by Governor Nestos. He succeeds Philip Elliott, who resigned to accept a position in the Attorney General's office.

Mr. Wenzell is appointed as a representative of employers, since Mr. Elliott was appointed their representative, S. S. McDonald was appointed as a representative of labor and G. N. Livdahl was named as a representative of the public. Mr. Wenzell's appointment is for the balance of Mr. Elliott's term, which would expire December 31.

Governor Nestos said he considered Mr. Wenzell exceptionally well qualified. He is a graduate of the University of North Dakota, a lawyer, a student of compensation insurance and probably the best qualified man in the state in this respect.

Mr. Wenzell has been secretary of the state employers' organization, secretary of the state bar association and president of the University of North Dakota Alumni Association.

TWO KILLED, TWO INJURED, IN AUTO CRASH

Cass County Men in Auto Struck by Northern Pacific Train Near Glen Ullin

THIRD VICTIM MAY DIE

Approached Crossing Near Glen Ullin, Apparently Unaware of Their Danger

Two men were instantly killed, another was probably fatally injured and a fourth suffered injuries about fourth degree in a collision between an automobile and a train on the Northern Pacific railroad struck an automobile in which they were riding at a crossing near Glen Ullin late yesterday.

The dead: John Archibald, Sheldon, N. D., and Alfred Pagel of Chaffee, N. D.

The injured: R. H. Moldenhauer, Chaffee, injured about head, unconscious; J. F. Martin, Cassella, bruises about head, not serious. Moldenhauer may die.

Says View Was Obstructed

The four were on their way to Richardson, 29 miles west of Glen Ullin, where one of the occupants intended to visit a relative.

Archibald and Pagel were instantly killed, one of the bodies being badly mangled. Moldenhauer was struck in the head and is believed to have a fractured skull. At a late hour last night he was still unconscious, and according to Dr. O. T. Benson, the attending physician, may die.

Martin was hurt about the head but his condition is not serious, Dr. Benson of Glen Ullin said. He was thrown clear of the train following the crash, and when thrown to the ground sustained bruises about his head.

Parents Notified

The two injured men are being cared for in a private home in Glen Ullin, while the bodies were removed to a mortuary for examination. Parents of the dead men were notified and are expected to arrive in Glen Ullin today.

J. K. Kennelly, Morton county coroner, was informed of the accident.

The men expected to stay at Richardson over night, according to Martin, and intended to go to New England.

Sees Accident

William Stevens, Bismarck traveling man, and his wife saw the accident. Stevens was coming to her room in a local hotel today suffering from the shock.

Mr. Stevens told friends that he saw the train approaching and that it whistled. He stopped on the west side of the track. The men in the death car approached from the other side and apparently did not see the train until it was almost on them.

Stewart Farmer, the engineer, in Mandan today said he blew the whistle when he saw the car, and declared there was no obstruction to the track. Another Glen Ullin report said the view was obstructed by a string of box cars.

The men in the car were off the track, it is said, and were looking for trail marks. The driver saw the train as he was almost on the track, tried to switch the car, a Ford sedan, to one side and ran along the track. The pilot of the engine caught the car, throwing it to one side, away from the train.

One of the men was dragged under the train for a considerable distance. Both of the men instantly killed were badly crushed.

Father of Eight

Archibald, who is 48, is the father of eight children. Pagel, the other dead man, is 32 years old.

An inquest was held this afternoon. Engineer Farmer declared that the driver was looking in an opposite direction. Martin, the driver, himself said he did not see the train until it was almost upon him. He then tried to tip the car over in a ditch.

The machine was crumpled. Moldenhauer regained consciousness at 9 a. m. today. The bodies will be shipped to Sheldon.

Stock Raisers Protect Prices By Joint Action

Buenos Aires, Sept. 5.—A co-operative association of cattle raisers similar to those operating in the United States is being organized here by Dr. Tomas A. Le Breton, Minister of Agriculture, to protect their interests and insure fair prices for stock sold to packers for export and to the Buenos Aires meat trade.

Cattle raising is Argentina's most important industry and prices have reached such low levels that sometimes, it is asserted, they do not cover the cost of transportation from the ranches. Dr. Le Breton would have the cattle raisers cooperate in preventing offers to the market regardless of demand, by regulating consignments and dealing directly with the packers and butchers.

ROTARY CLUB READY TO AID FAIR PROJECT

Necessity for Starting Action Now for North Dakota Dairy Show Shown

BISMARCK CORN CAPITAL

George Will, Carl Nelson and A. F. Bradley Show Need For Association

Rotary will get behind the project to organize this fall a North Dakota Corn and Dairy Show. It is hoped that at an early meeting of the directors of the Association of Commerce that the drive will be launched so that a fair can be held next year. It was pointed out by speakers at the noon luncheon of the club at the McKenzie hotel that action must be taken this fall to organize if any fair is to be held next year as the organization work, securing a site, and general preliminary steps will take from four to five months.

Rotarians See Need

The corn and dairy show was the topic presented to the Rotarians by the September program committee consisting of A. F. Bradley and Sept. Saving. Mr. Bradley presided and in his opening remarks indicated the demand among the merchants and people generally for a fair or series of entertainments that would be of an educational nature and at the same time bring trade into the city by advertising Bismarck's many advantages. Other cities it was pointed out had distanced Bismarck in this respect.

George Will of the Will Seed Company and Carl Nelson of the North Dakota Producers gave formal talks about the advantages to be gained by the community in such a project.

"Bismarck is the corn capital of North Dakota," said Mr. Will. "As fine specimens as are produced anywhere are grown in this section. In fact this section demonstrated what North Dakota can do in the production of corn."

"When farmers come to our plant," said Mr. Nelson, "to market their products they say Mandan and other places have a fair or place to show farm products and stock; here in Bismarck you have nothing. Such a show would stimulate dairying on this side of the river. Morton county is ahead of us in this respect and I find that farmers who grow corn and feed cows and other stock are not in the foreclosure lists."

Great Need Seen

"Dairying continued Mr. Nelson is being started in Bismarck and is part of the Rotary program but we need to foster it more and more. It is necessary to have a fair association to afford the farmers a place of exhibit and entertainment."

Mr. Will declared that South Dakota, Montana and other states had corn shows. This state he declared was ahead of Montana, Wyoming and

RIBS BROKEN DRIVES ON

Assistant State Dairy Commissioner Injured in Auto Smash

George H. Ritter, assistant state dairy commissioner, is in a local hospital suffering from injuries sustained last night when his Ford coupe struck a tank wagon and turned a complete somersault 18 miles north of Napoleon. After the accident, though suffering from several fractured ribs, cut face and other bruises, Mr. Ritter drove into the city to see a physician.

Mr. Ritter was bowling along at a fair clip when he saw a tank wagon in the road. No horses were hitched to it. He attempted to avoid striking the wagon but one wheel of his car struck the hub of the tank wagon. His car turned over, with him in it, and landed right side up. The top of the car was crushed.

DOWAGER PRINCESS DIES

London, Sept. 5.—(By the A. P.)—The Japanese embassy here received a telephone message today from Princess Kitashirakawa in Paris saying she had received information that the Dowager Princess Yamashina, Princess Kiroko Kanin and Prince Moromasa, members of the royal family, are dead in Tokio as a result of the earthquake.

(By the Associated Press)

As the story of the Japanese disaster is unfolded in the fragmentary messages from press association correspondents, Japanese newspapers and individuals it is apparent that the magnitude of the catastrophe has not been overdrawn.

In only one dispatch has there been a suggestion that the death list will not reach the proportions already indicated. This was a message from the Radio Corporation of America in Japan which said the Japanese Home Office estimated the dead in Tokio at 10,000 and in Yokohama at 100,000.

On the other hand Admiral Edwin A. Anderson, commanding the United States Asiatic says latest unofficial reports give the casualties in the capital and Yokohama at 240,000 dead and 450,000 injured.

A wireless message from Admiral Anderson to Admiral Eberle, chief of naval operations, conveying this information was picked up in San Francisco. Naval officers in San Francisco, believe that Admiral Anderson who is speeding to Japanese waters obtained advices of conditions in Japan by radio.

ESTIMATE 320,000 DEAD

Another estimate, this one coming from the Eastern News Agency, says that 320,000 persons have been killed in the entire stricken district.

TWO MURDERED ARE FOUND IN STRAW STACK

Jamestown Authorities Seeking Identity of Men Found Found Near That City

INQUEST IS HELD

Believed That Two Men Were Murdered for $200 They Exhibited in the City

Jamestown, N. D., Sept. 5.—The two unidentified men found murdered in a straw pile just outside of the city yesterday were buried in one grave last night after a search for means of identification. The bodies were in a bad state of decomposition. A watch found on one is the only available clue to their identity that has been discovered.

The coroner's inquest, held today, examined several witnesses and found that two men answering as to size and clothes worn by the two dead men had visited a local cafe on the evening of Sunday, August 19, and exhibited a roll of bills, saying they had $200 to spend for a good time. The inquest adjourned at noon. More witnesses will be examined this afternoon.

It was brought out that the straw stack where the bodies were found was threshed on the 17th and 18th. The bodies of two transients, evidently murdered for their money while asleep, were found a quarter mile from Jamestown in a straw pile. An iron pump handle was lying near the bodies.

The men had been murdered at least a week ago, the authorities said. The pockets were turned inside out and an empty wallet was left through the jeweler's number on the watch, authorities are endeavoring to trace the identity of the men. Both were of medium height, had brown hair and each weighed about 175 pounds. They were new blue overalls.

HEBRON BANK JOB LOOT RECOVERED

DRAG NET IS SPREAD FOR TWO SUSPECTS

Men Declared to Have Committed Robbery Escaped From South Dakota Jail

MONEY IN GRANARY

Men Identified as Those Having Entered Stores in Sterling, Burleigh Co.

Approximately $5,000 in loot stolen from the Farmers State Bank of Hebron on August 18 was recovered in an isolated granary nine miles south of McLaughlin, S. D. and officials through the reservation country today have spread a dragnet which is expected to lead to the arrest of the two men alleged to have blown the safe of the bank.

The men sought, alleged to have been identified as the robbers, are Fred Rover and Theodore Dvorak. They escaped jail at McIntosh, South Dakota, last week where they are held for robbing a store at Lawien, S. D.

The loot was brought to Mandan last night by Sheriff Charles McDonald of Mandan. It included: four $100 Liberty Bonds, one $50 Liberty Bond, $3,800 in American Bankers Association Travelers' checks, notes aggregating $2,700, non-negotiable, and approximately $700 in ten and twenty dollar bills which were so badly torn by the charge of dynamite which was used to blow the safe that they were non-usable.

Operations checked. A check of operations is said to identify the men as the parties having robbed a store at Lawien, S. D., a gasoline station at McKenzie and entered stores at Sterling, N. D.

A farmer entering his granary in Corson county, South Dakota, for the purpose of cleaning it out yesterday, found a large sack of grain sawdust of the kind used for keeping money. He notified authorities. A search revealed the loot from the Hebron bank.

The two men had been arrested for another robbery of a hardware store and had indicated their willingness to plead guilty. They were lodged in the flimsy country jail and escaped. Since they did not have an automobile it is believed they escaped on a train and are still in the reservation country. A shot-gun which had been stolen at Lawien, fixed their guilt for the job.

The men had given Butte, Montana, as their home. The car they had was a heavy type Oldsmobile which they admitted having stolen in Miles City, Montana. In it were found tracks of the kind used to stop robbers after the Glen Ullin bank robbery.

No connection. Sheriff McDonald said there was no connection with the Hebron job and the attempted robbery of a bank in Glen Ullin. The latter job, he said, was probably done by three men, one an ex-convict from the North Dakota penitentiary, who left Mandan the day of the robbery.

For the past ten days the Hebron gang has been working between Bowman, N. D. and Lemmon, S. D.

SHORT CHANGE PLAN CHARGED

Two Men Held by the Local Police Alleged Attempt To Defraud

Two men are held by the local police, alleged to have tried to short-change two Bismarck merchants. A charge of disorderly conduct was preferred against them by Chief Martindale and Police Magistrate Cashman fined them $15 each and sentenced them to 30 days in jail each.

One of the men, it is alleged by police, would go into a store, make a small purchase and present a twenty dollar bill. When the change was being handed back to him, he would extract a ten dollar bill and then claim the merchant had not given him the right change.

The men gave their names as W. R. McCurdy of Cherokee, Ia. and J. Walker of Waco, Texas. They had been with the carnival that was at the Mandan fair, the police say.

RIBS BROKEN DRIVES ON

Assistant State Dairy Commissioner Injured in Auto Smash

George H. Ritter, assistant state dairy commissioner, is in a local hospital suffering from injuries sustained last night when his Ford coupe struck a tank wagon and turned a complete somersault 18 miles north of Napoleon. After the accident, though suffering from several fractured ribs, cut face and other bruises, Mr. Ritter drove into the city to see a physician.

Mr. Ritter was bowling along at a fair clip when he saw a tank wagon in the road. No horses were hitched to it. He attempted to avoid striking the wagon but one wheel of his car struck the hub of the tank wagon. His car turned over, with him in it, and landed right side up. The top of the car was crushed.

Immigrants To Be Sent Back

New York, Sept. 5.—Immigration Commissioner Curran today was advised by Washington that several thousands of immigrants who entered quarantine just before midnight last night were to be considered as having arrived in the August quotas which has been filled. This means deportation. Nearly 5,000 immigrants who were shipped back at Brooklyn were affected by the orders. The Drottingholm and Scandinavian left a second after midnight.

10,000 PEOPLE FLEEING FROM TOKIO TRAPPED AND BURNED TO DEATH; RELIEF RUSHED TO CITY

As Story of Disaster which Enveloped Great Japanese Cities Is Unfolded. Tale of Horror Grows and Estimates of Number Lost Continues to Remain in the Hundreds of Thousands—273 Distinct Earth Shocks, One Lasting Six Minutes, were Felt in Tokio on Saturday and Sunday—Fire which Swept Capital Burned For Several Hours.

Osaka, Sept. 5.—(By the A. P.)—Water and provisions are reported still scarce in Tokio. Three persons are sharing a single piece of bread.

Approximately 10,000 refugees, fleeing from the ruins of Tokio, were burned to death in the yard of a military clothing factory in the industrial suburb of Honjo.

PROVISIONS SCARCE

Osaka, Sept. 5.—(By the A. P.)—The Japanese embassy here received a telephone message today from Princess Kitshirakawa in Paris saying she had received information that the Dowager Princess Yamashina, Princess Kiroko Kanin and Prince Moromasa, members of the royal family, are dead in Tokio as a result of the earthquake.

DOWAGER PRINCESS DIES

London, Sept. 5.—(By the A. P.)—The Japanese embassy here received a telephone message today from Princess Kitshirakawa in Paris saying she had received information that the Dowager Princess Yamashina, Princess Kiroko Kanin and Prince Moromasa, members of the royal family, are dead in Tokio as a result of the earthquake.

As the story of the Japanese disaster is unfolded in the fragmentary messages from press association correspondents, Japanese newspapers and individuals it is apparent that the magnitude of the catastrophe has not been overdrawn.

In only one dispatch has there been a suggestion that the death list will not reach the proportions already indicated. This was a message from the Radio Corporation of America in Japan which said the Japanese Home Office estimated the dead in Tokio at 10,000 and in Yokohama at 100,000.

On the other hand Admiral Edwin A. Anderson, commanding the United States Asiatic says latest unofficial reports give the casualties in the capital and Yokohama at 240,000 dead and 450,000 injured.

A wireless message from Admiral Anderson to Admiral Eberle, chief of naval operations, conveying this information was picked up in San Francisco. Naval officers in San Francisco, believe that Admiral Anderson who is speeding to Japanese waters obtained advices of conditions in Japan by radio.

Another estimate, this one coming from the Eastern News Agency, says that 320,000 persons have been killed in the entire stricken district.

Estimate 320,000 Dead. Fresh calamity has overtaken Tokio and the terrorstricken remnants of its population. Nearly 10,000 people, seeking refuge in the yard of a military clothing factory located in a suburb, were trapped by flames and burned to death.

Two hundred and sixteen distinct earth shocks were felt in Tokio last Saturday followed by 57 Sunday. The most severe tremor was of six minutes duration.

The flames that swept the capital burned four hours and fifty minutes, leaving Tokio and its environs in ruins and desolation.

21 Square Miles Devasted

Fire and earth convulsions together have devastated an area of 21 square miles in and about Tokio, demolishing 350,000 houses.

The suffering of Yokohama, too, appears not to have been exaggerated. An official statement received by the Japanese consul-general in San Francisco says that the great port itself and the Yokosuka naval station have been wiped out. This message added that more than half of Tokio had been destroyed.

From Osaka comes a dispatch asserting that a new volcano has broken into activity 50 miles northwest of Tokio. Meanwhile the Japanese cities and towns unaffected by the disaster are making every effort to relieve the conditions of the millions who are believed to be suffering from injuries and lack of food.

Very Terrible, Says Message. One message which listed Tokio wards virtually undamaged was released by Consul Ouyama at San Francisco who received his information by way of Shanghai. The other dated September 1, originally was sent by Count Makino, keeper of the imperial household at Tokio. "All telegraph wires to Tokio and Yokohama are destroyed and there is no means of communication with the foreign office," said the message. "An official telegram has yet been received. Fire, earthquake and flood destroyed much of the city. Three or four of the 15 wards escaped damage entirely. It is estimated that one million persons are homeless and the casualties are given as 160,000. Great damage was done to Yokohama and Hakone."

"The two cities of Tokio and Yokohama are under martial law and an earthquake bureau has been established in Tokio. All available army units are marching toward Tokio for relief purposes."

The Makino message which reported the safety of the Emperor, Empress and Prince-Regent and the death of three other members of the imperial household and added: "The earthquake was very terrible and the casualties are estimated at 160,000. The entire business district and downtown sections of Tokio were almost completely destroyed."

NESTOS URGES APPRECIATION OF ALL LABOR

Necessity for Higher Regard For Manual Exertion Is Urged in Labor Day Speech

SPEAKS AT GRANVILLE

Granville, N. D., Sept. 4.—Governor R. A. Nestos, speaking at a Labor Day celebration here, declared: "We need more of an appreciation of the need of physical labor and a higher regard for those who faithfully engage in any useful employment."

With the audience including many farmers and business men the Governor, in his speech, also emphasized his belief in the need for diversified agriculture in North Dakota. The Governor said in part:

"This day has been set aside by law as a labor day, a day upon which we give serious thought to the need and dignity of labor, and to a serious consideration of the rights and duties of those who engage in useful labor of any kind and so contribute to the building of the community, state and country of which such laborer is a member."

"We need more of an appreciation of the need of physical labor and a higher regard for those who faithfully engage in any useful employment. You will agree with me, I am sure, that the man who contributes a fair day's work is justly entitled to a full day's pay, and also that the laborer who hires out to do a day's work should not be permitted to draw a full day's wage for the doing of a half day's work. We should and must treat the laborer fairly but he in return, must treat the employer and the community fairly or he has failed to meet properly the duties and obligations resting upon him. There never has been and there never will be a better and truer measure of the respective duties, obligations and rights of employers and employees than is the Golden Rule. When both the farmer and his laborer, the contractor and their workers, and all others seek to do unto others as they would wish those others to do unto them, there will be no serious labor troubles and a much greater happiness and prosperity will be the lot of every person and community."

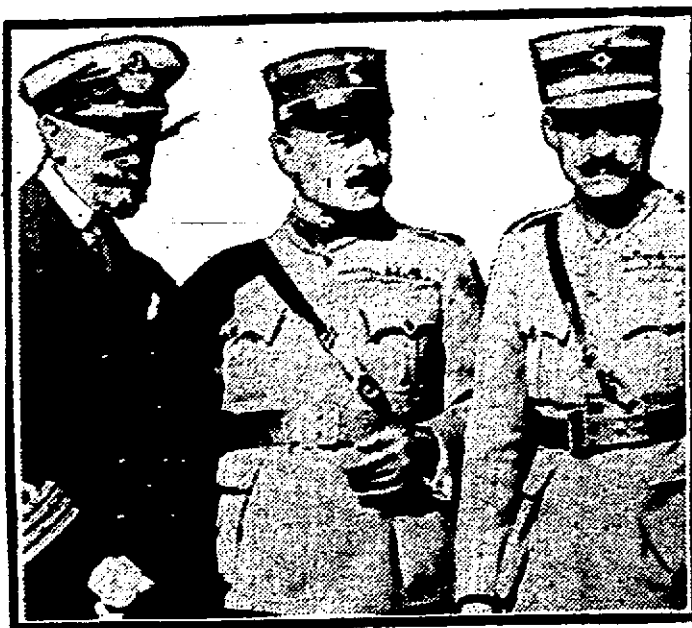

Community Building
"But today you are especially interested in community building and in a consideration of all of those elements, including labor, that go into the growth and development of any community."

"In the main, the strength and greatness of any community or commonwealth depends upon the character and traits of the individual citizens and how intelligently and successfully these citizens work together in building the life of such community and commonwealth. In this process there are many elements to be considered. From one viewpoint, these may be divided into the personal and community characteristics, and the success of any community will depend upon the highest development of each of these. We need an educated citizenship—men and women able to read and write to such an extent as to understand the news of the day and the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. No community or state can be successful unless its citizens in the main have such an education. In addition to that, and just as important, is the development of character. The citizenship of such a community should be imbued with a sense of civic responsibility for the right conduct not only of such person but of all of his neighbors. The home, the schools, and the church should contribute to the development of that kind of character and, if successful, should insure the stability of the community."

"In recent years there has been a tendency to undermine and to destroy the tremendous influences for good that lies in a properly functioning home and church. It is to be hoped that with the growing realization of the danger to our American civic life which lies in this development, there will come a purpose and will to preserve the sanctity of the home, to discourage divorces, encourage respect for and obedience to parents, and to promote a spirit that will cling to the fundamentals in our religious faith."

Questions For Community
"Then comes the question of the economic life of the community and the demand that each person, no matter what his business—farming, store-keeping, banking, lumber yard, or anything else—shall not only understand his own business, thoroughly but be able to see it in relationship to all other lines of business in his neighborhood and to the world about him. It has been said before, that whether you be a farmer or engage in business in town, it is well for you first of all, wherever possible, to own your own business. In addition to that, it is of the utmost importance that you know it, mind it, and run it. You can make no success of it unless you do know it, mind it, and run it, and ordinarily you will find much more pleasure and profit in the conduct of the business of which you are also the owner. I am glad to know that Granville as a community has progressed very happily and that the great majority of the community of this state during the past ten years, and especially that you have made such splendid progress in diversified farming."

"Upon careful investigation of conditions in the various communities of this state, I have become convinced that unless each community succeeds in getting its farmers, with the encouragement of the business men, to adopt as the community slogan 'Raise upon the farm, outside of wheat and rye, a sufficient variety and amount of products to furnish the living of the family that works such farm,' we cannot expect to build a prosperous and happy community life. If you are a one-crop community, even though that crop be a splendid one like our wheat, you cannot depend upon continued success and prosperity. There is so much that may happen to it. Lack of moisture, hot winds, rust, saw flies, hail storms, low prices, and other things may come in to prevent the man who works the land from getting even his living from it. Instead of building your community structure on one pillar like that, even though a big one, would it not be much wiser to erect it upon ten or twelve different pillars consisting of the various products such as milk cows, beef cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry, bees, corn, clover, alfalfa, potatoes, or the garden, and that which can be successfully raised in your community and then even if one or two or three of these should fail you will almost invariably be getting enough out of the other products so that you can furnish the living of the family until such time as better general crops shall produce better conditions."

Slogan For Adoption
If you farmers will adopt that slogan and make sure that in the years to come you will raise upon your splendid lands all the cream, butter, beef, pork, poultry, honey, corn, potatoes, and garden truck needed not only upon your farms but in this community with enough left of these products to help supply the city of Minot and other places you will build in this community so dependable a form of agriculture as to insure your success and prosperity in the years to come."

"Be always open-minded and willing to learn from each other and from the farmers of other communities what to raise and how to raise it, that you may be able to produce quality products of whatever kind you grow in this community, and I am sure that the future of Granville and this neighborhood will be absolutely assured and that the lessons from your success will inspire many another community in this state."

CLOSER TOUCH LEGION HEAD'S AIM FOR YEAR

F. B. Streeter Will Seek To Improve Relations With The Various Posts

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 4.—The American Legion stands to become one of the greatest organizations in the United States for fostering wholesome American patriotism, for the protection of our cherished institutions and for furthering a feeling of mutual good will among all our citizens," says Frank B. Streeter of Lincoln, newly elected commander of the American Legion. "It is our duty from headquarters to the local units to strengthen the hand of our legally constituted authorities throughout the land, to assist in the complete Americanization of all who dwell among us, and to bring to the attention of all the many blessings which are bestowed upon us by our American citizenship. In all these matters I know that I will receive the hearty co-operation and support of all members of the American Legion in the department of North Dakota, and that through our joint efforts, we, of this department, will be able to maintain a high place among the departments of the organization throughout the nation."

Commenting upon his plans for the Legion during the coming year, Mr. Streeter said, "I expect to pay particular attention to the matter of building up the strength of the department as well as to continue the excellent program of economy in the expense of operating the same. I was authorized by the last convention to provide district deputies or representatives for each of the six judicial districts of the state and the names of those deputies will be announced as soon as the list has been completed. It is impossible for any state commander to properly cover the department and to secure the closer personal touch with the individual posts which is so necessary in keeping up the loyalty in the organization. I believe that the plan adopted at Wapeton will have a very beneficial effect along that line and will tend to bring the state organization in closer contact with the individual posts."

REMIT WALES' CRUISER

London, Sept. 4.—The battle cruiser Remora which carried the Prince of Wales on his tours of Canada, Australia and the Far East, is to undergo a refitting which will change her from a fleet ship into a first class fighting ship.

This ship and her sister-ship, the Repulse, were built on the theory that speed was above armament but after the performance of the similar ship, the Invincible, in the battle of Jutland, this theory has been put in the waste basket.

The estimated cost of putting the Remora on a level with the best ship in her class will be $4,000,000. She cost originally $15,000,000.

That the Tanlac treatment meets the requirements of those whose work calls for better than the average physical condition is well illustrated by what George Brown, interior decorator, 4343 Girard Ave., Minneapolis, says about it. "I was weak and run-down," Mr. Brown states, "and my appetite was so poor that a cup of coffee for breakfast was all I could get down. In fact, I often went all day without eating, would lie awake most of the night, and get up mornings feeling like I couldn't get any work done."

My nerves were unstrung, and I felt depressed and played-out generally. "Tanlac quickly created a brand new appetite, and made me eat three big meals every day. My nerves steadied, I sleep fine, and am so full of new energy that doing even calling in her class will be $4,000,000. She cost originally $15,000,000.

COURT OUSTS LUMBER FIRMS IN MISSOURI

State Wins in Suit Brought Against "Open Price Associations"

VIOLATES TRUST LAW

Says in Sweeping Decision That Statutes Prohibit Plan to Lessen Free Competition

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 5.—Missouri has scored a complete victory over the new form of business combinations known as "open price associations," in a suit brought by Attorney General Jesse W. Barrett against the St. Louis Lumber Trade Exchange. The Missouri Supreme Court ousted each of the nineteen St. Louis lumber companies composing the Exchange, assessed fines totaling $96,000 and ousted the Exchange itself.

The court sustained the attorney general in holding that the Exchange violated the State anti-trust laws, even though it did not directly fix prices. So far as is known, it is the first decision of any State court on the points involved and follows closely the decision of the United States Supreme Court last year in the hardwood lumber cases, according to Attorney General Barrett.

After the anti-trust decisions of Federal and State courts some fifteen years ago, holding that it was illegal for competitors to come together and agree upon prices, lawyers over the country began searching for a method, which would keep within the law and yet advance the interests of their clients, the attorney general said.

A plan was found which has been generally called "The open price association plan," according to Mr. Barrett, whereby competing companies formed a central association with a manager and secretary and reported to it all prices on sales by members. The association regulated the terms of credit and the general business practices of its members, and provided for cooperation that went far beyond the limits of the actual fixing of prices. Books were written describing the plan as "The New Competition," and it was believed, the attorney general said, that the method would be proof against prosecution by the State or Federal authorities.

Attorney General Barrett maintained that the net effect of the plan was to lessen the full and free competition which the Missouri laws require and to impose upon the public much higher prices. The court in a sweeping decision declared that the Missouri statutes forbid not only agreements to lessen competition, but agreements which tend to lessen it. The decision said that the very creation of a system of machinery which can be improperly used, is in itself a violation of the Missouri law. The court found that the increased cost of lumber was due to other factors as well, such as higher freight rates and greater labor costs, but condemned the lumber exchange in most positive terms.

A. C. PREPARES FOR LARGER ENROLLMENT

Registration at State Agricultural College Will Begin on September 24

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 5.—With the completion of the new offices and classrooms, officials at the North Dakota Agricultural college are prepared to meet the increased enrollment which is expected this year.

Registration at the college begins Monday, September 2 and the first classes will be held on Wednesday, September 26. A fee for late registration is charged to all students entering after classes have met for the first time of the new year.

In order that there might be room and facilities to care for the attendance expected this fall, many alterations have been made. New classrooms have been provided and this has necessitated moving some of the faculty and administrative offices to other buildings.

"The completion of the new agricultural building is one of the most important changes," declared Stanley A. Smith, architect at the college. "As well as being the newest building it is also one of the most imposing and modern." It is spacious and will house many offices, laboratories, and classrooms.

Francis Hall has been entirely remodelled and this historic building will be used this year for offices of the extension and experiment station. A new dairy feeding shed and addition to the poultry house and among the changes made in the agricultural buildings. A new greenhouse has made its appearance just westward of the present group. The Mechanics Arts and Engineering building have been redecorated and shingled and Music Hall has been repaired. New additions and enlarged seating space have been completed at the Administration building.

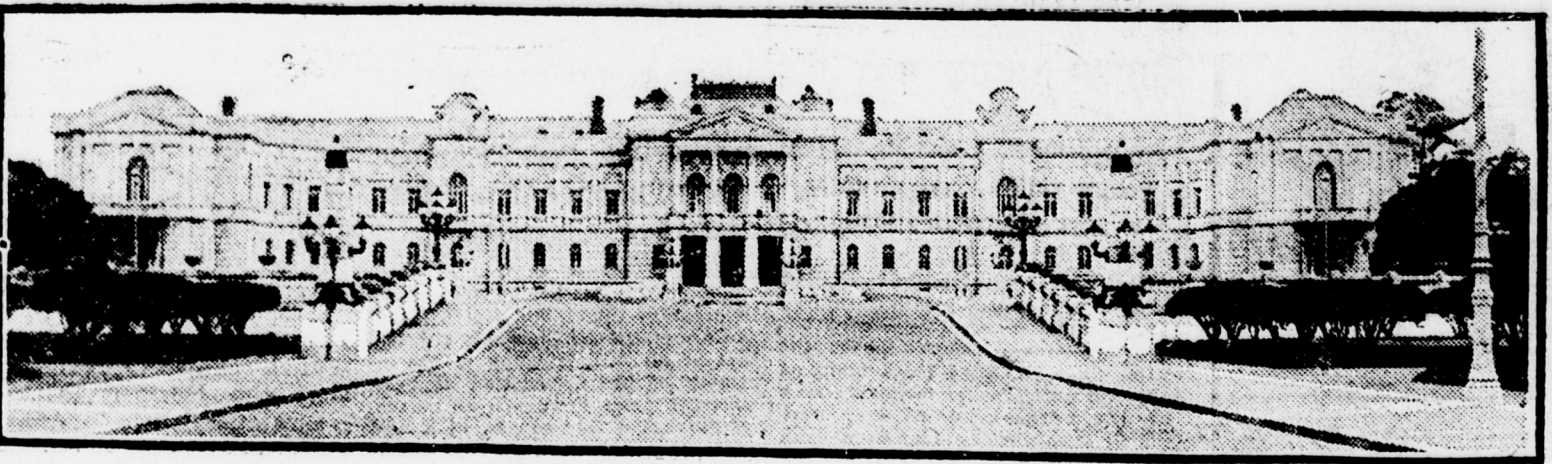

The extension department will move into Francis Hall and the publications department will forsake Science Hall for the new agricultural building. Science Hall will be the future home of the English, science, and economic departments.

GERMANY MAY ASK TO JOIN NATION LEAGUE

Reparation Question and Germany's Admission Will Come Up at Meeting

Geneva, Sept. 5.—The reparations problem and the question whether Germany is to be admitted to membership in the League of Nations are two matters, in the opinion of League authorities, that probably will come up at the meeting of League assembly which opens in this city, Monday, September 30.

In this connection an English delegate said recently: "I don't see how it will be possible to keep the reparations problem out of the discussion, unless it be settled before hand." And another delegate from one of the northern Scandinavian lands, referring to the popular movement in Germany to apply for membership, said: "Certainly Germany should come in. If she applies she would probably be elected easily."

These and other questions, like the problem of opium have served to create an atmosphere of unusual interest in this year's doings of the assembly.

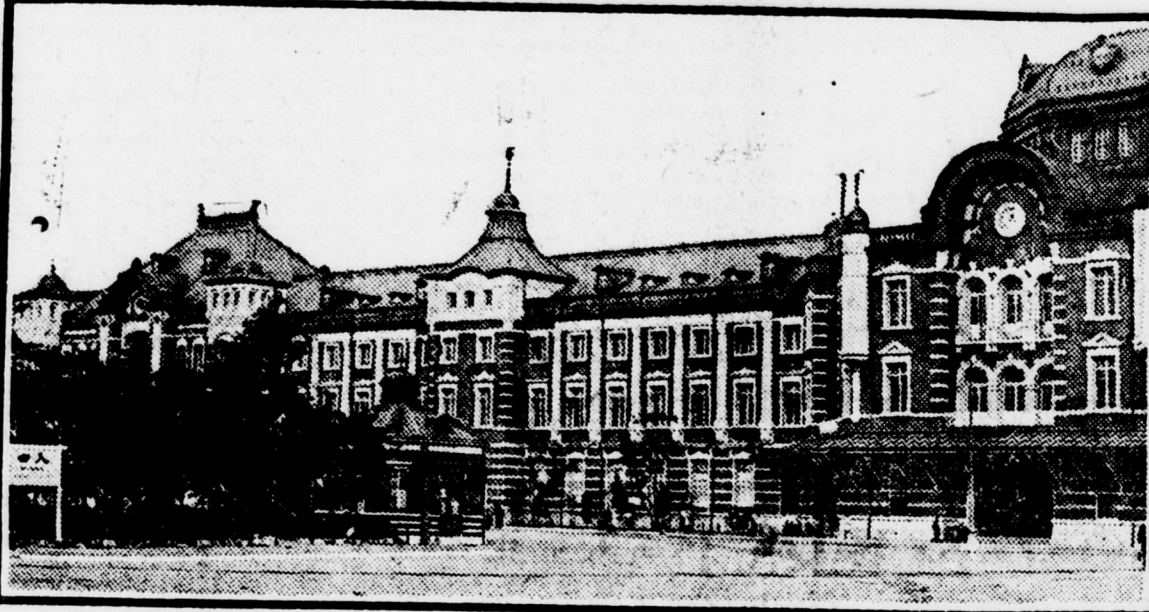

The first business on the agenda is the election of a president and six vice-presidents who, with the presidents of the six committees later elected, form with the president a bureau responsible for the general conduct of the business of the assembly. The actual work of the session then begins with a discussion of the annual report of the secretary general, Sir Eric Drummond, on the activities of the council during the past year and with a statement of what has been done to make effective the recommendations of the previous assembly. After a debate the assembly usually divides itself into six general committees. These include constitutional and legal questions, such as amendments to the covenant of the league, the work of the technical organizations, economics, finance, transit and health, the question of reduction of armaments, the budget and other matters of internal administration; social questions, such as opium, the white slave traffic and refugee problems, and political questions such as the admission of new states.

These committees are virtually small assemblies in themselves, for each country has the right to be represented on all of them. As three committees sit simultaneously one day and three others the next, the work of the assembly is greatly expedited. Newspaper correspondents are kept busy following all these meetings. When the committees make their final reports, usually brief, the full assembly affords a final debate on any point still at issue.

The official languages of the assembly are French and English. Speeches delivered in one are translated into the other tongue. The assembly convention lasts from three to four weeks and generally marks out broad policies whose detailed execution is left to the council, which is the cabinet of the League of Nations.

In view of the late President Harding's recommendation that the United States join the International Court of Justice, of special interest to Americans will be the election of a successor to Judge Ruy Barbosa of Brazil as a member of the court. This election is carried out by the concurrent majority action of the assembly and council. The American group of the old Hague arbitral court exercised its prerogative this

POLITICIANS USE AMPLIFIER

Makes Campaigning Easy—Voices Not Strained

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Fewer cracked or strained voices as the result of strenuous political speaking campaigns in the 1924 elections, and which at the same time may reach a much wider constituency, is seen in the applications of the loud-speaking device used so successfully by the late President Harding on his tour to Alaska.

Candidates will be enabled to address millions of citizens without vocal strain or discomfort, it is indicated, as the instrument can be installed in any location, while atmospheric conditions cannot affect its operation.

President Harding was able, without straining his voice, to make himself heard to thousands surrounding the observation end of his car. Speakers of experience have stated that ordinarily only a few hundred can hear an open-air address by the average speaker, and then they must be close.

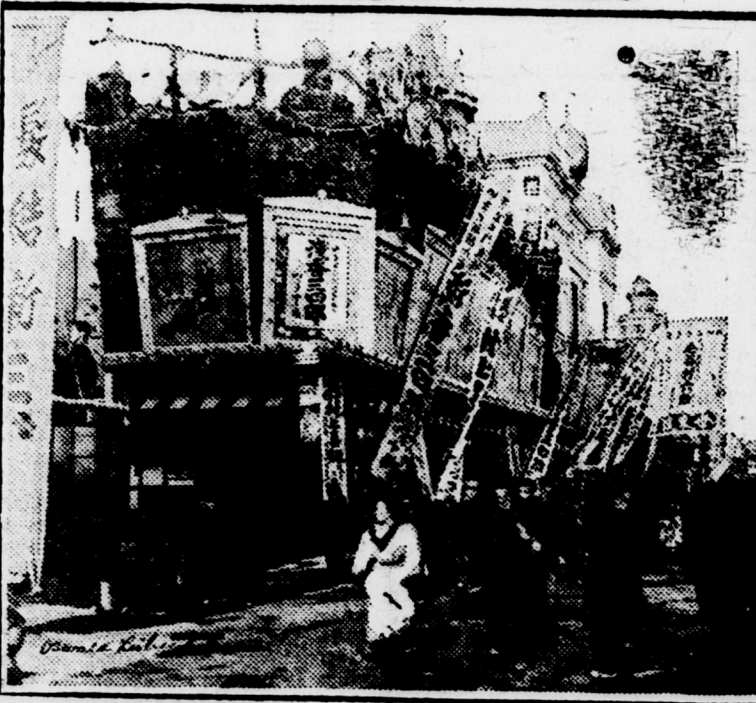

The speech amplifying system is composed of three portable transmitters mounted on the railing of the car's observation platform; a control room in which is located the operating rack with its amplifiers and accessory apparatus; five projectors mounted in a semi-circle on a specially built extension to the observation hood, and the signal system. The sound waves of the speaker's voice are absorbed by the transmitters and conveyed by wires to the control room where they are amplified and then delivered to the projectors on the roof, which serve as megaphones in delivering the words.

The signal system in arranged so as to enable the audience observer and the platform and control operators to converse by signals. If the observer in the crowd thinks additional volume is needed, he signals the platform man, who makes the desired changes.

Prior to prohibition, the plantations derived a considerable income from the molasses shipments to the mainland which were used for the manufacture of alcohol. Since then the molasses, which has a sugar content of one-fifth, has been used as fuel or thrown into the ocean.

A discovery that molasses may be used as a culture medium in the production of yeast, has created a considerable demand recently. It also has been found that molasses makes a valuable feed for stock, as, it is said, it has about twice the energy value of any other feed tested. These two developments are expected to utilize most of the molasses produced by the plantations.

The new demand is expected to add approximately $1,000,000 to the income of the Hawaiian plantations this year.

GIRL PROBLEM RURAL ALSO

Not Confined to Big Cities,
Says Social Worker, Here

The problem of delinquency among girls is not confined to big cities alone, Miss Virginia C. Young, representative of a branch of the National Committee on Prisons and Prison Labor, said in Bismarck today. Miss Young is completing a tour in which she is investigating conditions in every state in the union.

"We are often accustomed to thinking that such problems are confined to urban population alone," Miss Young said. "When you look over the glorious prairies of North Dakota you think nothing could ever go wrong to boys. But you have many problems, an especially big problem in the great number of migratory harvest workers that come through here every year. And it is the women that suffer."

Miss Young visited the state training school at Mandan and the state prison in Bismarck, and will visit the Florence Crittendon home in Fargo.

"I am especially pleased with the progress being made in the state training school at Mandan," said Miss Young, who has visited the institution before.

Among other things, she said, her organization was seeking to interest club women of the nation in the problem of juvenile delinquency.

TULSA FEARS MILITARY LAW

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 5.—Tulsa citizens were apprehensive today lest more vigorous imposition of martial law regulations should follow upon defiance of state military authorities by a masked band that abducted W. J. Matthews, a mechanic, and attempted to flog him.

Wounds Wreck Guisto's Career

Cleveland, Sept. 5.—Gas wounds received in the World War have wrecked the major league career of Louis Guisto. The big first baseman during the spring season, gave promise of becoming one of the best in the game, has returned to the Pacific Coast, having been given his unconditional release by the Cleveland Indians on recommendations of his physician.

Guisto became a member of the Indians in 1916. Then came the war, Guisto seeing service in France where he was gassed. He returned to America in poor physical condition. Since then he has been unable to stand the eastern climate.

After playing the Oakland team in the Pacific league during the 1919 and 1920 seasons, Guisto reported to the Cleveland club at the spring training camp, but his health failed to stand the strain and he was permitted to return to Oakland.

He again joined the Indians in 1922 and remained with the tribe the balance of the season. He was given a chance to break into the game when "Stuffy" McInnis was hurt, and played splendid ball until he met with an injury which kept him out of the game many weeks.

It was on his showing that Manager Speaker decided to part with McInnis last winter. Joining the Indians at Lakeland this spring, Guisto made a great effort to fulfill Speaker's expectations. His play during the spring training trip was a feature of the Indians' work.

Guisto was sent home when the team reached New Orleans to consult the club physician. He got into the game when the season opened, but was unable to get back into the stride he had shown in the south, and eventually was replaced at the initial bag by Frank Brower.

Went Espenrud, secretary of the Bismarck Rotary, said that the club was ready to aid the fair project in any way possible.

Each fall he said the farmers came to him and asked why there was no place here where they could show their corn products. He declared that at the state capital was the logical place for a corn and dairy show and that now was the opportunity to make Bismarck the corn center of a wide area. He declared that in 1920 corn production increased fifty percent and a good increase was noticeable each year.

Ray Bergeson endorsed the project as did E. J. Taylor suggesting that state aid could be secured in making this show of state wide significance.

Henry Duemeland, president of Rotary, said that there was no question but that Rotarians would get behind the affair individually through the Association of Commerce.

Birthdays celebrated

Several birthdays were celebrated with appropriate gifts. B. E. Skeel presented Judge Christianson with a health preservative. George Humphreys gave Fred Cunliffe a garden tool with which to pursue his hobby of gardening while L. K. Thompson gave Dr. Quinn certain tools commonly known as first aid to auto-tourists—a jack-knife and corker.

Bob Smith and J. Leonard Bell put on the Magnus Johnson fox trot which the new senator probably will not vote for the benefit of Cuba. Lodge when he reaches Washington. Judge Christianson and Carl Nelson gave a fine exemplification of the Magnus Johnson handshake which typifies a familiar farm operation in diversified sections only.

General vacationists who have returned home told of their adventures. Dr. Quinn related interesting features of his fifth trip to the Black Hills, stating that those who went on vacation trips could be divided into three classes, the high brows who haunted the historical and art centers of the effete east; the medium high brow who went to the Twin Cities and lakes and the low brows who got close to nature frequenting out-of-the-way roads and getting close to nature.

He declared that the Black Hills never lost their attraction and that they were within easy reach of Bismarck and the day was fast coming when they could be reached late in the afternoon.

Fred Cunliffe told of a business trip to eastern North Dakota. He declared that he had seen more corn in one field in Burleigh than he saw in Cavalier county. He declared that a lot of the state was not as diversified as this and that the tragedy of the one crop plan was everywhere evident. He returned very well satisfied with the conditions in the Slope section.

J. P. Jackson qualifying in the highbrow class of vacationists told of an interesting trip through the east by water and auto. Many historical points were visited in New York and lower Canada. He told of the progress in diversified farming and the prosperous appearance of those localities that were dotted with cattle and silos.

J. C. Taylor and Hal Dobler were named as a committee from Rotary to assist in the commemoration of Constitution Day.

The following were guests of honor: E. J. Taylor, Jr., W. S. Allen, Adrian, Mich.; A. W. Tracey, Spokane, Wash.

GIRL PROBLEM RURAL ALSO

Not Confined to Big Cities,
Says Social Worker, Here

The problem of delinquency among girls is not confined to big cities alone, Miss Virginia C. Young, representative of a branch of the National Committee on Prisons and Prison Labor, said in Bismarck today. Miss Young is completing a tour in which she is investigating conditions in every state in the union.

"We are often accustomed to thinking that such problems are confined to urban population alone," Miss Young said. "When you look out over the glorious prairies of North Dakota you think nothing could ever go wrong up here. But you have many problems, an especially big problem in the great number of migratory harvest workers that come through here every year. And it is the women that suffer."

Miss Young visited the state training school at Mandan and said the institution before she visited the institution. Among other things, she said, her organization was seeking to interest club women of the nation in the problem of juvenile delinquency.

TULSA FEARS MILITARY LAW

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 5.—Tulsa citizens were apprehensive today lest more vigorous imposition of martial law regulations should follow open defiance of state military authorities by a masked band that abducted W. J. Matthews, a mechanic, and attempted to flog him.

Wounds Wreck Guisto's Career

Cleveland, Sept. 5.—Gas wounds received in the World War have wrecked the major league career of Louis Guisto. The big first baseman who, during the spring season, gave promise of becoming one of the best in the game, has returned to the Pacific Coast, having been given his unconditional release by the Cleveland Indians on recommendations of his physician.

Guisto became a member of the Indians in 1916. Then came the war. Guisto seeing service in France where he was gassed. He returned to America in poor physical condition. Since then he has been unable to stand the eastern climate.

After playing the Oakland team in the Pacific league during the 1919 and 1920 seasons, Guisto reported to the Cleveland club at the spring training camp, but his health failed to stand the strain and he was permitted to return to Oakland.

He again joined the Indians in 1922 and remained with the tribe the balance of the season. He was given a chance to break into the game when "Stuffy" McInnis was hurt, and played splendid ball until he met with an injury which kept him out of the game many weeks.

It was on his showing that Manager Speaker decided to part with McInnis last winter. Joining the Indians at Lakeland this spring, Guisto made a great effort to fulfill Speaker's expectations. His play during the spring training trip was a feature of the Indians' work.

Guisto was sent home when the team reached New Orleans to consult the club physician. He got into the game when the season opened, but was unable to get back into the stride he had shown in the south, and eventually was replaced at the initial bag by Frank Brower.

Shoulder Stoop Causes Old Age

Portsmouth, Sept. 5.—Dr. Peter MacDonald, president of the British Medical Association conference here by stating that a stoop of the shoulders causes old age—a direct inversion of the popular theory.

He said that by following the advice of a layman he threw a score of years from his shoulders.

"I was feeling old and decrepit," explained Dr. MacDonald, "when I picked up a book, published by this layman, which said, 'I was then a prematurely aged man.'"

"I saw the author, and he told me that I was old simply because I stooped. Under the treatment he laid down I threw off my stoop, and in a few weeks I became a different man."

Dr. MacDonald is an upright, spruce-looking man, with an eyeglass and when he stretched himself to his full height and carefully adjusted his monocle he looked barely thirty years of age.

"We doctors," he said, "are too prejudiced against laymen who make a study of a certain subject, and often learn more than we do, despite all our knowledge of medicine and surgery."

"We have accepted the idea that the stoop of the shoulders and the bend of the neck are inevitably linked up with old age."

"I know it will sound unorthodox to you all to suggest that old age is brought on by this stoop of the shoulders, but I have been convinced that it is so; the stance of the body seems to be bound up with the period one can live, and if every man would hold himself upright he would live many years longer."

several other states which made a big feature of corn shows.

Each fall he said the farmers came to him and asked why there was no place here where they could show their corn products. He declared that at the state capital was the logical place for a corn and dairy show and that now was the opportunity to make Bismarck the center of a wide area. He declared that in 1920 corn production increased fifty percent and a good increase was noticeable each year.

Ray Bergeson endorsed the project as did E. J. Taylor suggesting that the show of state wide significance.

Henry Duemeland, president of Rotary, said that there was no question but that Rotarians would get behind the affair individually through the Association of Commerce.

COURT OUSTS LUMBER FIRMS IN MISSOURI

State Wins in Suit Brought Against "Open Price Associations"

VIOLATES TRUST LAW

Says in Sweeping Decision That Statutes Prohibit Plan to Lessen Free Competition

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 5.—Missouri has scored a complete victory over the new form of business combinations known as "open price associations," in a suit brought by Attorney General Jesse W. Barrett against the St. Louis Lumber Trade Exchange. The Missouri Supreme Court ousted each of the nineteen St. Louis lumber companies composing the Exchange, assessed fines totaling $96,000 and ousted the Exchange itself.

The court sustained the attorney general in holding that the combination violated the State anti-trust laws, even though it did not directly fix prices. So far as is known, it is the first decision of any State court on the points involved and United States Supreme Court last year in the hardwood lumber cases, according to Attorney General Barrett.

After the anti-trust decisions of Federal and State courts some fifteen years ago, holding that it was illegal for competitors to come together and agree upon prices, lawyers over the country began searching for a method which would keep within the law and yet advance the interests of their clients, the attorney general said.

A plan was found which has been generally called "The open price association plan," according to Mr. Barrett, whereby competing companies formed a central association with a manager and secretary and reported to it all prices on sales by members. The association regulated the terms of credit and the general business practices of its members, and provided for cooperation in the sale of lumber but stopped short of the actual fixing of prices. Books were written describing the plan as "The New Competition," and it was believed, the attorney general said, that the method would be proof against prosecution by the State or Federal authorities.

Attorney General Barrett maintained that the net effect of the plan was to lessen the full and free competition which the Missouri laws require and to impose upon the public much higher prices. The court in a sweeping decision declared that the Missouri statutes forbid not only agreements to lessen competition, but agreements which tend to lessen it. The decision said that the very creation of a system of machinery which can be improperly used, is in itself a violation of the Missouri law. The court found that the increased cost of lumber was due to other factors as well, such as higher freight rates and greater labor costs, but condemned the lumber exchange in most positive terms.

A. C. PREPARES FOR LARGER ENROLLMENT

Registration at State Agricultural College Will Begin on September 24

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 5.—With the completion of the new offices and classrooms, officials at the North Dakota Agricultural college are prepared to meet the increased enrollment which is expected this year.

Registration at the college began Monday, September 2 and the first classes will be held on Wednesday, September 4. A large number of students are expected to enter after classes have met for the first time of the new year.

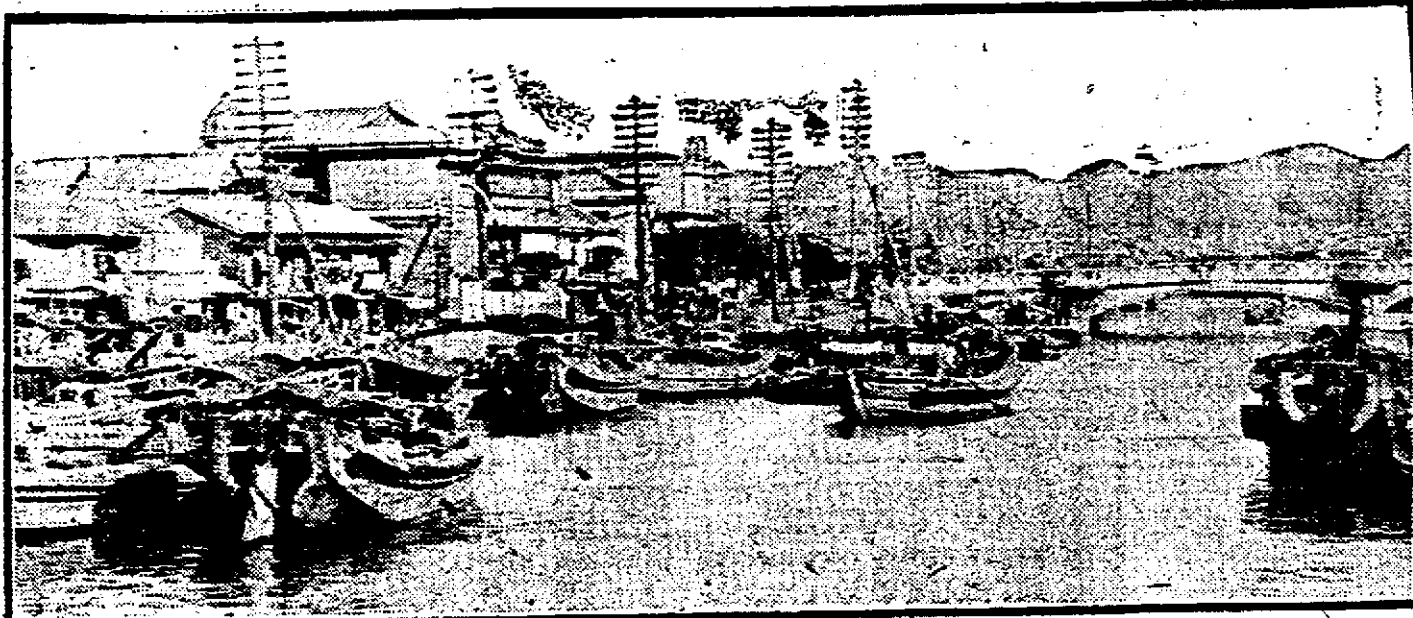

In order that there might be room and facilities to care for the attendance expected this fall, many alterations have been made. New classrooms have been provided and this has necessitated moving some of the faculty and administrative offices to other buildings.

Completion of the new agricultural building is one of the most important changes declared Stanley A. Smith, architect at the college. "As well as being the newest building it is also one of the most imposing and modern. It is spacious and will house many offices, laboratories, and classrooms."

Fargo Hall has been entirely remodelled and this historic building will be used this year for offices of the extension and experiment station. A new dairy feeding shed and addition to the poultry house are among the changes made in the agricultural buildings. A new green house has made its appearance just westward of the present group. The Mechanic Arts and Engineering building have been redecorated and shingled and Music Hall has been repaired. New additions and enlargements have been completed at the Administration building.

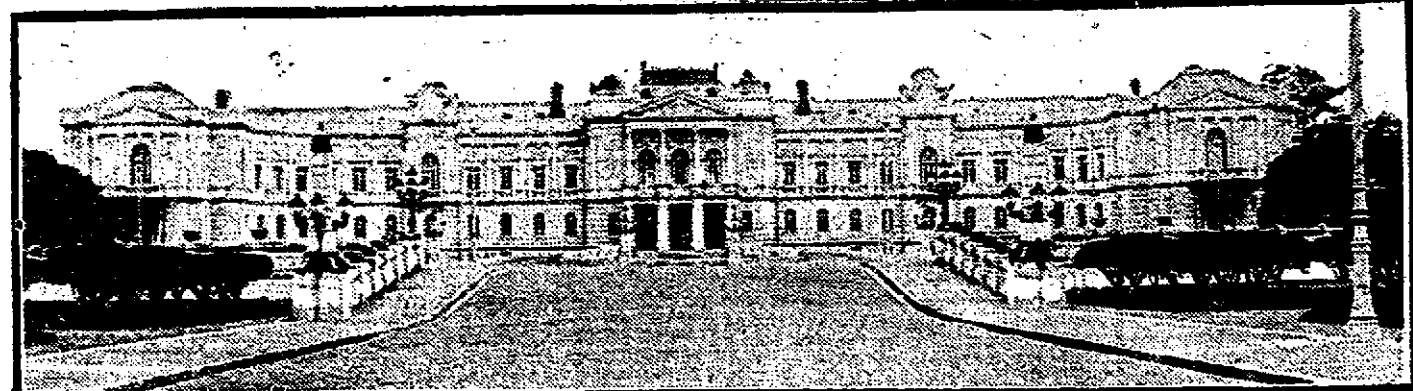

The extension department will move into Francis Hall and the public relations department will forsake the old building. Science Hall will be the future home of the English, science, and economic departments.

ON THE RIVER FRONT IN YOKOHAMA

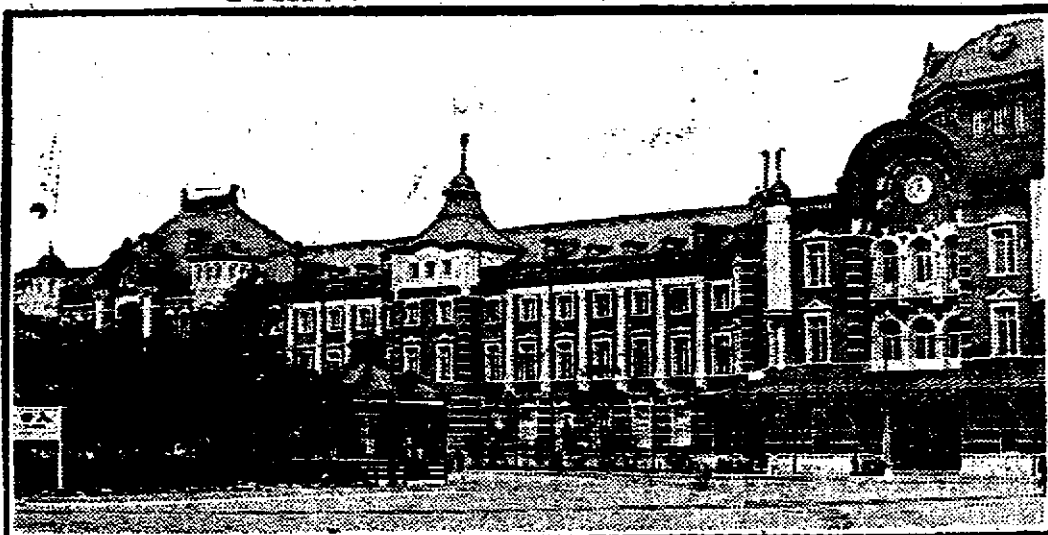

Yokohama is Japan's largest seaport, and ships from every maritime nation load at its modern docks. There is a river fleet of thousands of boats, too, engaged in lightering and in bringing to the piers the products of the interior agricultural and industrial district. This picture shows part of the river fleet of native boats.

POLITICIANS USE AMPLIFIER

Makes Campaigning Easy—Voices Not Strained

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Fewer cracked or strained voices as the result of strenuous political speaking campaigns in the 1924 elections, and which at the same time may reach a much wider constituency, is seen in the applications of the loud-speaking device used so successfully by the late President Harding on his tour to Alaska.

Candidates will be enabled to address millions of citizens without vocal strain or discomfort, it is indicated, as the instrument can be installed in any location, while atmospheric conditions cannot affect its operation.

President Harding was able, without straining his voice, to make himself heard to thousands surrounding the observation end of his car. Speakers of experience have stated that ordinarily only a few hundred can hear an open-air address by the average speaker, and then they must be close.

The speech amplifying system is composed of three portable transmitters mounted on the railing of the car's observation platform; a control room in which is located the operator's rack with its amplifiers and accessory apparatus; five projectors mounted in a semi-circle on a specially built extension to the observation hood, and the signal system. The sound waves of the speaker's voice are absorbed by the transmitters and conveyed by wires to the control room where they are amplified and then delivered to the projectors on the roof, which serve as megaphones in delivering the words.

The signal system in arranged so as to enable the audience observer and the platform and control operators to converse by signals. If the observer in the crowd thinks additional volume is needed, he signals the platform man, who makes the desired changes.

MOLASSES HAS MANY NEW USES

Honolulu, Sept. 5.—New uses which have been found for molasses, mainly a waste product of the Hawaiian sugar plantations since the enactment of the prohibition act, are expected to exhaust the supply this year, according to an announcement by the Sugar Factors, which handle most of the Hawaiian crop.

Prior to prohibition, the plantations derived a considerable income from the molasses shipments to the mainland which were used for the manufacture of alcohol. Since then the molasses, which has a sugar content of one-fifth, has been used as fuel or thrown into the ocean.

A discovery that molasses may be used as a culture medium in the production of yeast, has created a considerable demand recently. It also has been found that molasses makes a valuable feed for stock, as it is said, it has about twice the energy value of any other feed tested. These two developments are expected to utilize most of the molasses produced by the plantations.

The new demand is expected to add approximately $1,000,000 to the income of the Hawaiian plantations this year.

(Established 1873)

THE LATEST CRISIS

Italy may be able to extricate herself from the present crisis, but the tone of her ultimatum is nearly as emphatic as that which precipitated the world war. The occupation of Corfu and the manner in which Italy's demands are couched render in striking similarity the defiance of Austria toward Serbia that set a world on fire.

Whether it is merely an apology or the acquisition of Corfu and other islands of the seas that Mussolini desires will be revealed as his imperialistic plans unfold.

The diplomatic impasse is an acid test for the league of nations and probably the impotency of that organization to prevent war or its power to maintain peace will be demonstrated in the very near future.

There seems to be a war spirit sweeping over Italy under the stimulus of the Mussolini ultimatum. It would appear that there are always funds in Europe to start a war regardless of the staggering public debt that faces those impoverished nations.

Italy today owes the United States nearly two billion of which more than $280,000,000 is in interest. Greece is indebted to the United States in the sum of fifteen millions or more. In addition are the obligations to other nations incurred during the World War. The great sum total should almost preclude another war. It is hard to conceive how fresh capital is constantly available to carry out the war ambitions when once the occasion arises.

Mussolini came into power by a swift and almost bloodless revolution as the very dramatic leader of the Fascists. He declared less than a year ago the following oath in very solemn terms:

"I take a solemn oath that either the Government of the country must be given peacefully to the Fascists, or we will take it by force."

His defiant attitude toward the league of nations in the present crisis would indicate that the spirit of 1922 still rules the leader of the Fascists whose program is one of imperialism.

Greece has taken the natural course in referring the dispute to the League of Nations, thus recognizing the obligations of membership in that body. It is hardly to be expected that England and France will support Italy in her overseas imperialism.

The Greeks have offered the usual state apologies following offenses of this kind; indemnities to injured families also have been proffered but the spirit of the Fascists calls for greater abatement.

Stricken by an unsuccessful war, overburdened with debt and with thousands of refugees within her borders clamoring for bread, Greece finds it difficult to agree to paying the two million dollar indemnity asked by Italy for the murder of her countrymen.

America will watch with interest the ability of the League of Nations to function in this crisis.

THE JAPANESE DISASTER

Again the world is stunned by an almost inconceivable disaster, probably the worst of its kind in the world's history. Until the fire abates and more direct communication is established, it will be hard to estimate the total loss in lives and property. Japan certainly has never been visited with a like catastrophe.

Earthquake, fire and tidal wave combined in one tragic succession to devastate Tokyo, the capital of Japan. Of all the disasters that visit this world and take their terrible toll, the earthquake is the most destructive. Usually followed by fire so intense that human effort cannot cope with it, life and property are swept away with overwhelming rapidity.

History records nothing as severe as this latest disaster. In 1883 on the Malay Archipelago 36,380 were killed by earthquake and tidal wave. The San Francisco loss was 500. In 1908 the Isle of Sicily suffered a loss of 76,483. In 1914 Japan was visited with a volcano that left a death toll of 430. On December 26, 1920, 100,000 were reported killed in Kansu Province, China.

Throughout the world is deepest sympathy for the terrible losses suffered by the Japanese people. The Red Cross and other agencies of relief are mobilizing for the grim work of rehabilitation and succor. As usual the United States is taking the leadership, as she did in the case of Russia, Poland, the Near East and other stricken countries. When it comes to extending succor to the unfortunate in foreign lands, there is no aloofness here but a charity that is generous and spontaneous. The world looks for this leadership from America for the great heart of the republic has never failed yet in a crisis of this kind.

Japan is a most efficient and resourceful nation. From the embers of her capital will spring a new city. While relief will be necessary in the early stages of recuperation, the Japanese probably will reveal to the world the same stoicism in meeting this blow that has served her so many times in the past.

CHINA'S ARMY

China, famed as a peace-loving nation, now has a standing army of more than a million and a quarter soldiers. However, this is a police force rather than a military organization.

There's one soldier for each 400 Chinese citizens, a job that would be "pie" for Royal Mounted Police or Texas Rangers. But the Chinese soldiers can't maintain order in their country.

Nations are destroyed from within more often than from without, but in every country the people always imagine their great danger is from outsiders.

TYPICAL AMERICAN

A man is arrested, charged with neglecting to support his wife. According to the testimony at the hearing, he kept his family of five in a shack, provided only one bed, and failed to furnish enough to eat. Notwithstanding, he managed to own and run an auto.

We wouldn't go as far as to call him a typical American, but he certainly has some typical tendencies.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE RECOGNITION OF MEXICO

Formal announcement is at last made of the resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico. Although Mexico under the Obregon regime has had comparative quiet, years of turmoil have brought to her an enlightening experience.

Revolution followed by reconstruction has brought into effect a new land policy which breaks up the great estates and puts the land in the hands of small proprietors. There has been progress in the elimination of waste and graft in the public service, and a deepened appreciation of the need of education. More than all else perhaps, Mexico has learned her dependence on foreign capital for internal development.

And unlocking of her great resources through more machinery and irrigation equipment, more and better hydro-electric plants, would bring also a better and more stable political, economic and social order.

The United States stands ready to aid in this development, on condition that the security of our nationals and their property is guaranteed. This is all that the United States asks. Formal recognition means that such guarantee have been given.

Such recognition not only brings prestige to President Obregon, but marks a great advance step in Mexico's reconstruction and modernization. While it may not have been absolutely necessary to Mexico, it will greatly accelerate her development and give her a better place in the world.

The final success of the negotiations constitutes another striking posthumous achievement of the Harding Administration. — Minneapolis Journal.

ITALY'S MENACING FRONT

Those who treasure the peace of the world will be concerned by the militant step which Italy is taking in seizing island after island after bombardments in which countless civilians die; but they will be still more concerned by the fact that Italy is defying the League of Nations and refusing in advance to accept its decision in the controversy, if anything so one-sided can be called a controversy, with Greece. This though Italy, like Greece, is pledged to submit to the League council issues which may threaten the world's peace.

Greece has done much to forfeit the sympathy of the world, but Italy seems in a fair way to regain for Greece much of the consideration it has lost. Italy's position is that Italy's honor is involved, and that the issue is solely between her and Greece. So might any nation, bent on profitable war, evade its obligations under the Covenant of the League.

The League, however, is not weapons. There is in the Covenant no provision for an international body against a nation which breaks the peace. Needless to say, this may be a proper time, and a good opportunity, to invoke that weapon. — Duluth Herald.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Who sent you word about Mrs. Bear and her boys being after Tommy Trout?" asked Nancy, when Buster Bear and Bunch Bear and their mother had gone home to fish again. "Mister Gallop, the cowboy fairy, rolled up his lasso and hung it on his saddle. 'It was Dandy Dipper who told me,' he answered. 'Do you know Dandy Dipper?'"

"No," said Nancy. "What is he called that for? And what's he like?" "He's a bird," explained the fairy man. "But jump on your ponies and I'll take you to his house. It isn't far from here."

So the Twins climbed on Snow and Blackie and they all rode along until they came to a place where the creek fell down from a high place to a low place and then went rushing off as if it were scared. "Here's where he lives," said Mister Gallop. "Jump down, and follow me."

Before they knew what he was about, Mister Gallop had waded into the water in his high boots and walked straight into the waterfall. It was because he was a fairy, no doubt, but anyway, it was most astonishing.

"It's a good thing we have our magic shoes along," laughed Nancy, "or we never could follow him. Come on, Nick, here goes."

The Twins put down their heads and dived right in, and lo and behold when they got inside it was as quiet and dry as could be. "This is where Mister Dipper lives," said Mister Gallop, "but he isn't at home. Oh, here he comes now."

As he spoke a little gray bird came splashing in. Over his eyes were little curtains to keep the water out. Then he lifted the little curtains and shook himself.

"Why, how do you do!" he said hospitably. "I didn't know I had company. Thank you for saving my friends, Tommy and Timmy Trout. I've been greatly worried."

"You're welcome," said Mister Gallop. "If anything else goes wrong please let me know."

"I sure will!" declared Mister Dipper positively.

Before the war Great Britain owned nearly 44.5 per cent of the world's total iron and steel tonnage, but now this has decreased to less than 33 per cent.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO THE GAY LITTLE MARQUISE, IN CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

I have thought about you a good deal since dear little Marquise in the weeks that I have been ill and I wondered if the love of a king was any different from the love of any other man.

Of course your love was different from mine because you had to keep it in your secret heart. That must have been torture. You could never have been the woman to whom like me a baby was given. Possibly—oh, tragic thought—you might have been one of those distracted mothers who placed her babe upon the doorstep of some high lady of the court.

You see, I weave all sorts of stories about you. This little drawer where you and I have come at least 200 years apart is still a meeting place where one woman's soul may speak across the void to the soul of another woman.

Many things have happened since I wrote you last. Today I went driving for the first time and the dear friend who was with me at the time of the accident came to bolster up my courage and renew my faith in myself by going with me on my first trip.

"You were not to blame, Leslie," said Ruth Ellington. "Anybody is liable to have a piece of the machinery in his car break. Let's not talk about it any more. It is all right now."

When we left, the baby was out with his nurse and Ruth did not see him, but during the ride twice she asked me, "Is it possible Leslie that you have not the slightest idea who put that baby in front of your door? It was very mysterious, wasn't it? I wonder why you were picked out."

30 Persons Killed In Auto Accidents In Minn. Recently

Fargo, Sept. 5.—Thirty persons killed and 225 injured in 256 accidents in 60 days is the showing in a Minnesota state highway bulletin this week, based upon reports from newspapers and patrolmen and other field employees over the 7,000 mile trunk highway system. A map showing where the accidents occurred is being displayed by the highway department in the state departments exhibit at the Minnesota state fair this week.

Back Texas From Mining Concerns To Amount to Millions

Duluth Minn., Sept. 5.—Back Texas due from twenty-one mining companies on the iron range for the years ending Dec. 31, 1921 and 1922, amounting to $5,109,967.85 under the occupational tax law, which was held valid by the United States supreme court last spring, have been certified to State Auditor Ray P. Chase by the state tax commission, according to word received by local attorneys of the companies.

Taxes due from six other small operators on the range have not yet been certified, owing to incomplete returns, but are expected to raise the totals for both years by approximately $125,000.

This action of the commission marks another step in the long fought Minnesota tonnage tax, whereby the state hopes to collect in addition to the $16,000,000 property tax, paid annually by the mining companies, a tax for the privilege of removing iron ore.

Engine Explodes; Threshers Injured

Fargo, Sept. 5.—Several members of the threshing crew were injured when the steam engine belonging to Garfield Houghland exploded on the farm owned by B. G. Tenneson, Fargo attorney, near Harwood Sunday.

AT THE MOVIES

Amidst the surroundings of the Pacific Coast Ship Yards site which played such an important part in the achievements of the United States during the war Marshall Neilan, motion picture producer, found an ideal "location" for his new production, "The Strangers' Banquet," which comes to the Capitol theater today for two days.

A thrilling drama of the shipyards dealing with present-day conditions, this pictureization of Donn Byrne's well known book might have been written amidst the towering dry-docks and thundering riveters of this plant owned by the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock Company.

Among the famous players who appear amidst this atmosphere in the green drama are Hobart Bosworth, Claire Windsor, Rockliffe Fellowes, Thomas Holding, Nigel Barrie, Claude Gillingwater and a dozen other noted artists of the silver sheet. Thousands of regular shipyard workers helped to emphasize the spectacular effects created by Mr. Neilan for this picture.

Take Nuptial Vows At High Noon at Evangelical Manse

At a very pretty home wedding at the Evangelical Manse at high noon today Miss Martha Elizabeth Pabst became the bride of J. H. Grant McDonald, son of D. R. McDonald of Eighth Street. Rev. C. F. Strutz read the marriage service which took place before members of the family and a few intimate friends.

Attending the bridal couple were Miss Rosalie Pabst, sister of the bride, and Wm. McDonald, brother of the bridegroom. The bride was attired in a blue canton crepe gown trimmed with gray beads and carried an arm bouquet of bridal roses. Her attendant was dressed similarly.

Mrs. McDonald, a graduate of the Teachers' Training College at Aberdeen, S. D., and a teacher in the Aberdeen schools for a number of years has made her home with Rev. and Mrs. C. F. Strutz for many years. The bridegroom is employed as a mechanic at the Lahr Motor Sales Company.

Immediately following the marriage ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Strutz home, covers being laid for 24 guests. Flowers carrying out a pink and white color effect were used in the dining room and living room to form an appropriate background for the bridal couple.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL

Amidst the surroundings of the Pacific Coast Ship Yards, site which played such an important part in the achievements of the United States during the war Marshall Neilan, motion picture producer, found an ideal "location" for his new production, "The Strangers' Banquet," which comes to the Capitol theater today for two days.

A thrilling drama of the shipyard dealing with present-day conditions, this pictureization of Donn Byrne's well known book might have been written amidst the towering dry-docks and thundering riveters of this plant owned by the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock Company.

Among the famous players who appear amidst this atmosphere in the screen drama are Hobart Bosworth, Claire Windsor, Rockliffe Fellowes, Thomas Holding, Nigel Barrie, Claude Gillingwater and a dozen other noted artists of the silver sheet. Thousands of regular shipyard workers helped to emphasize the spectacular effects created by Mr. Neilan for this picture.

THE RECOGNITION OF MEXICO
Formal announcement is at last made of the resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico. Although Mexico under the Obregon regime has been comparative quiet, years of turmoil have brought to her an enlightening experience.
Revolution followed by reconstruction has brought into effect a new land policy which breaks up the great estates and puts the land in the hands of small proprietors. There has been progress in the elimination of waste and graft in the public service, and a deepened appreciation of the need of education. More than all else perhaps, Mexico has learned her dependence on foreign capital for internal development.
And unlocking of her great resources through more machinery and irrigation equipment, more and better railroads, better agriculture and more hydro-electric plants, would bring also a better and more stable political, economic and social order. The United States stands ready to aid in this development, on condition that the security of our nationals and their property is guaranteed. This is all that the United States asks. Formal recognition means that such guarantee have been given.
Such recognition not only brings prestige to President Obregon, but marks a great advance step in Mexico's reconstruction and modernization. While it may not have been absolutely necessary to Mexico, it will greatly accelerate her development and give her a better place in the world.
The final success of the negotiations constitutes another striking posthumous achievement of the Harding Administration. — Minneapolis Journal.

ITALY'S MENACING FRONT
Those who treasure the peace of the world will be concerned by the militant spirit which Italy is taking in seizing island after island after bombardments in which guiltless civilians die; but they will be still more concerned by the fact that Italy is defying the League of Nations and refusing in advance to accept its decision in the controversy, if anything so one-sided can be called a controversy, with Greece. This though Italy, like Greece, is pledged to submit to the League council is a move which may threaten the world's peace.
Greece has done much to forfeit the sympathy of the world, but Italy seems in a fair way to regain for Greece much of the consideration it has lost.
Italy's position is that Italy's honor is involved, and that the issue is solely between her and Greece. So might any nation bent on profitable war evade its obligations under the Covenant of the League.
The League, however, is not weak. There is in the Covenant somewhere a provision for an international boycott against a nation which breaks the peace needlessly. This may be a proper time, and a good opportunity, to invoke that weapon. — Duluth Herald.

THE LATEST CRISIS
Italy may be able to extricate herself from the present crisis, but the tone of her ultimatum is nearly as emphatic as that which precipitated the world war. The occupation of Corfu and the manner in which Italy's demands are couched recall in striking similarity the defiance of Austria toward Serbia that set a world on fire.
Whether it is merely an apology or the acquisition of Corfu and other islands of the seas that Mussolini desires will be revealed as his imperialistic plans unfold.
The diplomatic impasse is an acid test for the league of nations and probably the impotency of that organization to prevent war or its power to maintain peace will be demonstrated in the very near future.
There seems to be a war spirit sweeping over Italy under the stimulus of the Mussolini ultimatum. It would appear that there are always funds in Europe to start a war regardless of the staggering public debt that faces those impoverished nations.
Italy today owes the United States nearly two billion of which more than $280,000,000 is in interest. Greece is indebted to the United States in the sum of fifteen millions or more. In addition are the obligations to other nations incurred during the World War. The great sum total should almost preclude another war. It is hard to conceive how fresh capital is constantly available to carry out the war ambitions when once the occasion arises.
Mussolini came into power by a swift and almost bloodless revolution as the very dramatic leader of the Fascisti. He declared less than a year ago the following oath in very solemn terms:
"I take a solemn oath that either the Government of the country must be given peacefully to the Fascisti, or we will take it by force."
His defiant attitude toward the league of nations in the present crisis would indicate that the spirit of 1922 still rules the leader of the Fascisti whose program is one of imperialism.
Greece has taken the natural course in referring the dispute to the League of Nations, thus recognizing the obligations of membership in that body. It is hardly to be expected that England and France will support Italy in her overseas imperialism.
The Greeks have offered the usual state apologies following offenses of this kind; indemnities to injured families also have been proffered but the spirit of the Fascisti calls for greater abasement.
Stricken by an unsuccessful war, overburdened with debt and with thousands of refugees within her borders clamoring for bread, Greece finds it difficult to agree to paying the two million dollar indemnity asked by Italy for the murder of her countrymen.
America will watch with interest the ability of the League of Nations to function in this crisis.

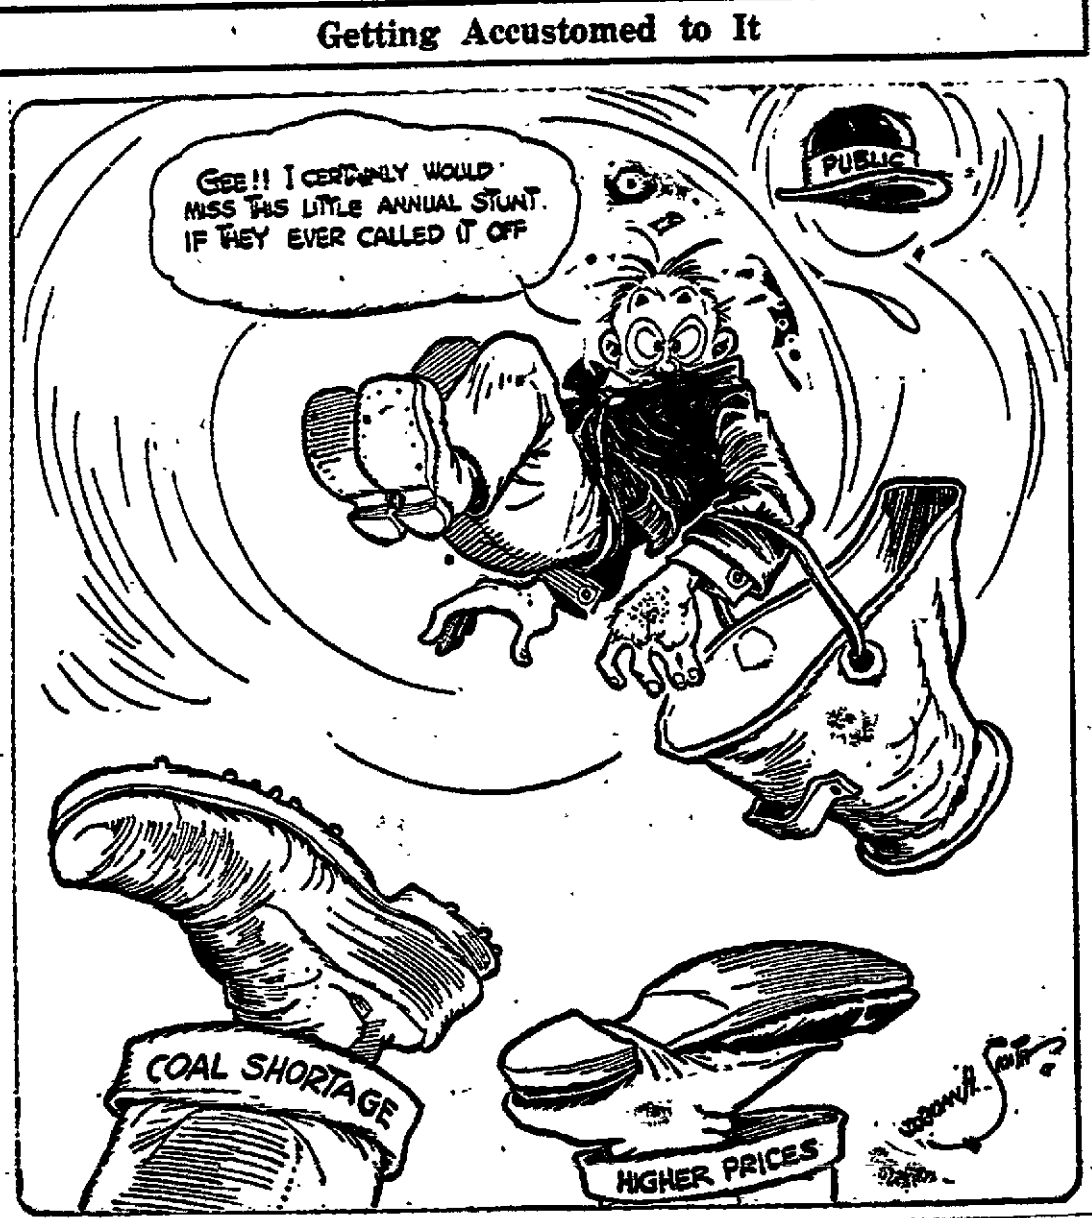

THE JAPANESE DISASTER
Again the world is stunned by an almost inconceivable disaster, probably the worst of its kind in the world's history. Until the fire abates and more direct communication is established, it will be hard to estimate the total loss in lives and property. Japan certainly has never been visited with a like catastrophe.
Earthquake, fire and tidal wave combined in one tragic succession to devastate Tokio, the capital of Japan. Of all the disasters that visit this world and take their terrible toll, the earthquake is the most destructive. Usually followed by fire so intense that human effort cannot cope with it, life and property are swept away with overwhelming rapidity.
History records nothing as severe as this latest disaster. In 1883 on the Malay Archipelago 36,380 were killed by earthquake and tidal wave. The San Francisco loss was 500. In 1908 the Isle of Sicily suffered a loss of 76,483. In 1914 Japan was visited with a volcano that left a death toll of 430. On December 26, 1920, 100,000 were reported killed in Kansu Province, China.
Throughout the world is deepest sympathy for the terrible losses suffered by the Japanese people. The Red Cross and other agencies of relief are mobilizing for the grim work of rehabilitation and succor. As usual the United States is taking the leadership, as she did in the case of Russia, Poland, the Near East and other stricken countries. When it comes to extending succor to the unfortunate in foreign lands, there is no aloofness here but a charity that is generous and spontaneous. The world looks for this leadership from America for the great heart of the republic has never failed yet in a crisis of this kind.
Japan is a most efficient and resourceful nation. From the embers of her capital will spring a new city. While relief will be necessary in the early stages of recuperation, the Japanese probably will reveal to the world the same stoicism in meeting this blow that has served her so many times in the past.

CHINA'S ARMY
China, famed as a peace-loving nation, now has a standing army of more than a million and a quarter soldiers. However, this is a police force rather than a military organization.
There's one soldier for each 400 Chinese citizens, a job that would be "pie" for Royal Mounted Police or Texas Rangers. But the Chinese soldiers can't maintain order in their country.
Nations are destroyed from within more often than from without, but in every country the people always imagine their great danger is from outsiders.

TYPICAL AMERICAN
A man is arrested, charged with neglecting to support his wife. According to the testimony at the hearing, he kept his family of five in a shack, provided only one bed, and failed to furnish enough to eat. Notwithstanding, he managed to own and run an auto.
We wouldn't go as far as to call him a typical American, but he certainly has some typical tendencies.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO THE GAY LITTLE MARQUISE, IN CARE THE SECRET DRAWER
I have thought about you a good deal dear little Marquise in the weeks that I have been ill, and I wondered if the love of a king was any different from the love of any other man.
Of course your love was different from mine because you had to keep it in your secret heart. That must have been torture. You could never have been the woman to whom I loved a baby was given. Possibly—oh, tragic thought—you might have been one of those distracted mothers, who placed her babe upon the doorstep of some high lady of the court.
You see, I weave all sorts of stories about you. This little drawer where you and I have come at least 200 years apart is still a meeting place where one woman's soul may speak across the void to the soul of another woman.
Many things have happened since I wrote you last. Today I went driving for the first time and the dear friend who was with me at the time of the accident came to bolster up my courage and renew my faith in myself by going with me on my first trip.
"You were not to blame, Leslie," said Ruth Ellington. "Anybody is liable to have a piece of the machinery in his car break. Let's not talk about it any more. It is all right now."
When we left, the baby was out with his nurse and Ruth did not see him, but during the ride twice she asked me, "Is it possible Leslie that you have not the slightest idea who put that baby in front of your door?" It was very mysterious, wasn't it? I wonder why you were picked out for all the people in this great city? Have you tried to find out anything about the boy's parentage?
I confess I was a little annoyed. I never knew Ruth before to be so curious. I presume I answered her rather abruptly when she spoke of it the second time.
"No, dear, I haven't the slightest idea to whom that baby belonged. I only know some woman's heart must have broken, some woman's life must have been laid in shattered ruins about her, some woman's future must have seemed from that moment to be a blank as she gave that darling baby to me."
"To me, my dear Ruth, the whole thing was a miracle which some beneficent Fate worked out for me, but Jack in his usual practical manner remembered that the baby was placed in front of our door the morning after that long piece came out in the paper, explaining that they feared for my life or reason and that the doctors thought the only thing that could save me would be putting another baby in my arms."
"That seems plausible," said Ruth after a slight pause, "but I believe I never could rest without knowing something more about it."
"I haven't the slightest curiosity," Ruth. "I hope I shall never know. As it is now, not only I but you and everybody else in a few years will have forgotten that the child was not born to me."
I changed the subject then, but since, little Marquise, I've been wondering what Ruth had on her mind.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Roberts Barton
"Who sent you word about Mrs. Bear and her boys being over Tommy's house?" asked Nancy, when Buster, Bear and Bunch Bear and their mother had gone home after promising never, never, never to fish again.
Mister Gallop, the cowboy fairy, rolled up his lasso and hung it on his saddle. "It was Dandy Dipper who told me," he answered. "Do you know Dandy Dipper?"
"No," said Nancy. "What is he called that for? And what's he like?"
"He's a bird," explained the fairyman. "But jump on your ponies and I'll take you to his house. It isn't far from here."
So the Twins climbed on Snow and Blackie and they all rode along until they came to a place where the creek fell down from a high place to a low place and then went rushing off as if it were scared.
"Here's where he lives," said Mister Gallop. "Jump down, and follow me."
Before they knew what he was about Mister Gallop had waded out into the water in his high boots and walked straight into the waterfall. It was because he was a fairy, no doubt, but anyway, it was most astonishing.
"It's a good thing we have our magic shoes along," laughed Nancy, "or we never could follow him. Come on, Nick, here goes."
The Twins put down their heads and dived right in, and in and behold when they got inside it was as quiet and dry as could be. "This is where Mister Dipper lives," said Mister Gallop. "But he isn't at home. Oh, here he comes now."
As he spoke a little gray bird came splashing in. Over his eyes were little curtains to keep the water out. Then he lifted the little curtains and shook himself.
"Why, how do you do?" he said hospitably. "I didn't know I had company. Thank you for saving my friends, Tommy and Timmy Trout. I've been greatly worried."
"You're welcome," said Mister Gallop. "If anything else goes wrong please let me know."
"I sure will!" declared Mister Dipper positively.

Back Texas From Mining Concerns To Amount to Millions
Duluth Minn., Sept. 5.—Back taxes due from twenty-one mining companies on the iron range for the years ending Dec. 31, 1921 and 1922, amounting to $5,108,567.85 under the occupational tax law, which was held valid by the United States Supreme Court last spring, have been certified to State Auditor, May P. Chase by the state tax commission, according to word received by local attorneys of the companies.
Taxes due from six other small operators on the range have not yet been certified, owing to incomplete returns, but are expected to raise the totals for both years by approximately $125,000.
This action of the commission marks another step in the long fought Minnesota tax war, whereby the state hopes to collect in addition $15,000,000 property tax, paid annually by the mining companies, a tax for the privilege of removing iron ore.

Eight children of the Hankinson vicinity survive, besides whom there are 29 grandchildren and 27 great grandchildren. She was well known, especially among the early pioneers along the Wild Rice river.
Funeral services were held here.

SAM JONES IN NO-HIT, NO-RUN HALL OF FAME

Yankee Pitcher Hurls Remarkable Game Against The Athletics

(By the Associated Press.)
Chicago, Sept. 5.—Sam Jones, the New York American's ball-tosser from Woodstock, Ohio, wrote his name in large letters in the history of baseball yesterday by shutting out the Athletics in Philadelphia without a hit. The Yankees won, 2 to 0. An error by Scott on a grounder in the eighth and a pass to Galloway in the first detracted but slightly from an otherwise perfect record. Only three men in the history of modern baseball have kept the bases spotless through a whole game—Cy Young, Addie Joss and Charles Robertson.

Babe Ruth made but one hit in four times at bat and resigned the American League leadership in batting to Harry Heilmann, slugging Detroit outfielder, who smashed out to safeties in three times at bat. Heilmann is now leading with a percentage of .3923, Ruth having .3916. In the National, Zack Wheat, Brooklyn veteran, replaced Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis as leading batsman. He is leading the Cardinal star by two points with a percentage of .384.

The New York Nationals and Cincinnati both won, staying the same distance apart, three and a half games, but Pittsburgh, beaten by the Reds, went back a full game, two behind Cincinnati. The Giants defeated Boston 3 to 0. The Reds trimmed the Pirates 2 to 1. Washington took a 3 to 1 victory from the Red Sox in Boston.

The Chicago Nationals defeated St. Louis, 3 to 2. In Detroit the Tigers defeated Chicago, 5 to 2. Cleveland trimmed the Browns, 6 to 2.

Billy Evans Says

"WHAT is the greatest asset for a young pitcher just breaking into the major leagues?" I put that question to Jack Ryan, veteran backstop, now doing duty as a coach to the Boston American League pitching staff.

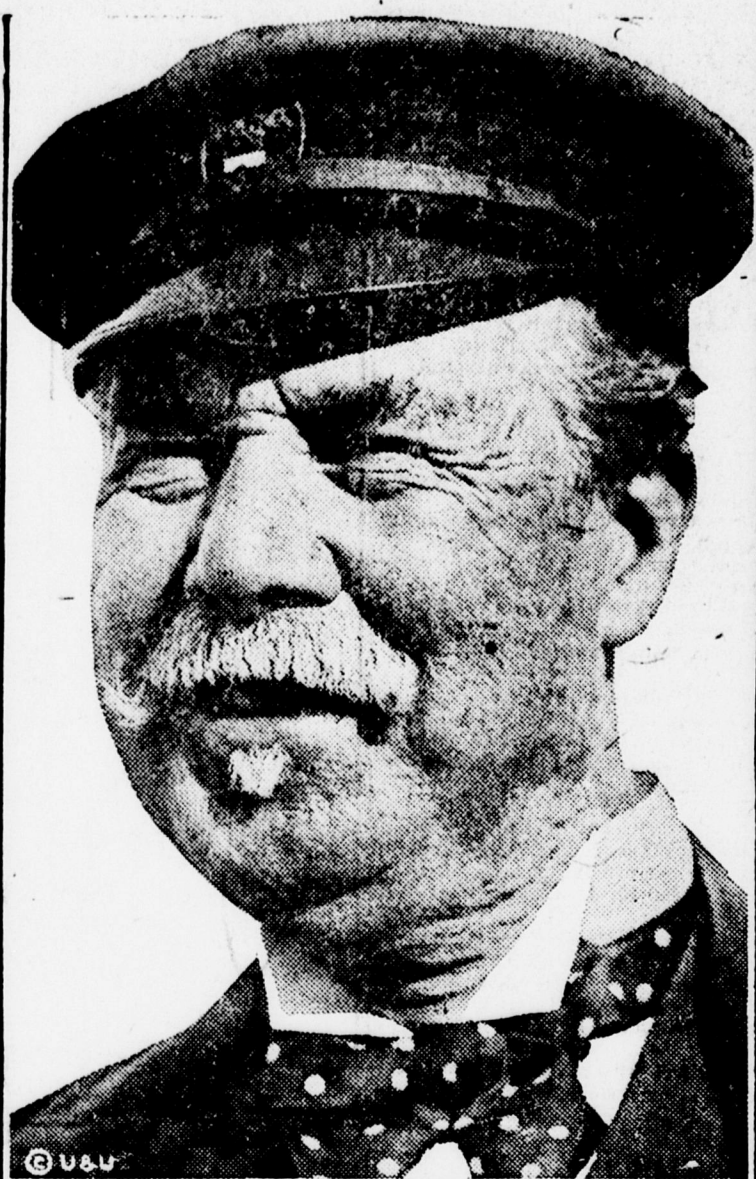

"THAT'S an easy one," replied Ryan. "Control, of course. Control is not only the greatest asset that a recruit could possibly possess, but it is equally valuable to a veteran star. No matter how much stuff a pitcher has, it isn't worth a penny to him if he can't get the ball over the plate. Any pitcher who can get the ball over the plate, thereby forcing the opposition to hit their way on, always has a chance to win."

THAT afternoon the Chicago club sent a recruit pitcher by the name of Gillenwater against the Boston Red Sox. I wondered how he would make out. Remembering what Ryan had said about control, I decided to put his theory to the acid test.

GILLENWATER is a right-handed pitcher. He is a side-arm twirler and starts his ball rather low. It was evident that his peculiar delivery would be to his advantage, as his style differs from the majority of pitchers. Gillenwater delivers the ball much after the manner of Howard Ehmke, who it so happened was the Boston Red Sox pitcher that day.

GILLENWATER showed a fairly

Trick Bats Are Taboo in American League, Using Them Automatically Suspends Player

By NEA Service.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—The trick bat is taboo in the American League. Babe Ruth's four-piece bat which started all the agitation over the trick bats has extended to many other quarters. Ruth believed that his bat would pass inspection since it is made of hard wood, round, and within the proper dimensions.

The rules says the bat to be official must be made of wood, which is singular and not sections of wood. Ruth's bat is plural, made of four separate pieces glued together. It has been decreed that it will not pass muster in the American League. That's final.

With Ruth's four-piece bat goes the plugged bat. This style bat is used by Kenneth Williams, slugger of the St. Louis Browns, as well as many other crack hitters in both major leagues.

Desiring to get a bat as large as possible at the desired point of contact, players have been having the bat factories make their bats to the desired dimensions. Such bats usually are a trifle too heavy.

In order to get them to the required weight, a hole is drilled in the center of the bat, removing as much of the wood as necessary to get the stick to a weight that best suits the batter. The bat is then plugged with a piece of wood or cork.

The plugging of a bat makes it possible for a player to get a much larger bat without being handicapped by the extra weight.

Several years ago, filling the bats with small nails was a popular pastime with the ball players. One player in order to get more drive into his bat drove about 100 steel victrola needles into his bat within a certain limited space, regarded as the best possible point of contact on the bat, when properly held.

The Ruth bat has started a war on trick bats in the major leagues. From now on all bats in the American League must be round, of one piece, of hard wood and conform to the required dimensions. The use of any bat that fails to come within the rules, will automatically suspend a player for five days without pay.

Since a great many National League players have been using four-section bats like that of Ruth, also the plugged variety of the Williams type, similar action will no doubt be taken as to the trick weapons.

by and we would have much better pitching in the majors."

Puzzling Plays

THE PLAY

There are runners on first and second base and two are out. The batsman hits sharply to left field. The runner on second crosses the plate while the runner on first reaches third base and the batsman second on the hit.

The runner originally on first base, in going from first to third on the hit, failed to touch second base. The slip was noticed by the second baseman of the team in the field, also the base umpire.

The second baseman called for the ball, touched that base, and appealed to the umpire for a ruling. The umpire called out the runner who failed to touch second while advancing from first to third on the hit of the batsman. This makes the third out, retiring the side.

Does the run score? Now is the batsman's effort scored?

THE INTERPRETATION

When the runner on first failed to touch second base while advancing to third, he made a force play possible at second. When the ball was thrown there and the umpire ruled the runner out, it made a force play for a third out.

The rules state that no run can score on a play in which the third out is a force play. The carelessness of the base runner so made this play, therefore the run does not count.

In a like manner, the batsman who apparently made a two-base hit, loses his hit, as the rules state the batsman cannot be credited with a hit when his drive results in a force play.

HOPE HARMSSEN WILL CHALK UP A NEW RECORD

Son of Hazen Man Declared One of Fastest Dash Men In The World

Rolf Harmsen, son of R. N. Harmsen of Hazen, may establish a new world's record in the hundred yard dash if he can cure his one defect, a slow start. His slow start is occasioned by his inability to hear the pistol shot, but if the gun is fired a few feet from Harmsen his sensitive skin can feel the vibration in the atmosphere.

J. Frederick Meagher, writing in The Chicago Herald and Examiner, tells of the Hazen boy as follows:

World athletic history was in the making when two undersized but evenly matched sprinters took daily practice together more than twenty years ago in Washington, D. C.

The Georgetown sprinter, Arthur Duffey, was shortly to achieve deathless fame as the first human to travel 100 yards in 9.3-5 seconds. The other diminutive speed merchant was Alva Long, deaf-mute student of Georgetown's neighbor, Gallaudet College, the only institution of higher education for the deaf in the world. He might have started in nearly equal measure with Duffey, but, discouraged by his inability to outrun his then comparatively unknown opponent, he retired from the track forever.

Becoming a teacher in the North Dakota State School for the Deaf, Alva Long adopted a peculiar hobby. "I'll discover and develop a boy to better Duffey's mark if it takes the balance of my natural life," he vowed.

For twenty years Long patiently experimented with every pupil prospect in the little state, and now at last his efforts are in fair way of meeting with success. His prize pupil is Rolf Harmsen, who did 9.4-5 in every start at Gallaudet College this spring and is entered in the national A. A. U. championships next week under the colors of the I. A. C. Harmsen's starting form is so poor that he has been practically "left at the post" in every start, sometimes having to overcome as much as four yards lost due to slowness in leaving the mark.

This four yards spells all the difference between 9.4-5 and 9.2-5 seconds, which would be a new world's record.

While this statement looks preposterous at first sight, an analysis proves it accurate. The 9.4-5 second sprinter covers approximately eleven yards per second, or slightly over two yards every fifth of a second. The loss of four yards at the start of a race, by a winner who finishes in 9.2-5, is practically the loss of 2-5ths of a second. Therefore it would seem that the new I. A. C. speedster—off to a perfect start at the top of his form—as capable of 9.2-5, or at least 9.3-5-10.

Coach Johnny Behr is laboring with his deaf Dane every afternoon on Stagg Field, and hopes to cure this one fatal flaw in a flawless flying machine on two legs. If the starter's gun is fired a few feet from Harmsen his sensitive skin can feel the vibration in the atmosphere as readily as normal men feel it through their ear drums, so deafness, per se, is no great handicap.

The deaf lad is 19, stands 6.1 and weighs 180 pounds. Although a handsome boy, when running his face is twisted into hideous grimaces as he covers the ground with gigantic leaps and bounds.

KRAUSE WILL MEET KNAUF

Fargo, Sept. 5.—Johnny Knauf, Moorhead welterweight, yesterday signed contracts to meet Battling Krause in a 10-round no decision bout at Grand Forks late this month. The match was made by Alvin Purcell and Leslie "Tex" Trotter, Grand Forks promoters who were in Fargo attending the 40 and 8 program. Much interest will be attached to the third meeting between the welterweight fighters. After their first meeting both battlers claimed the decision while Krause was eliminated in the third round of the second fight for landing a foul blow.

OBJECTS TO JURISDICTION

William Lemke Opposes Supreme Court Jurisdiction In Bank Matter

Judge C. M. Cooley of Grand Forks will hear arguments in Fargo today on the demurrer filed by William Lemke as attorney for the Security State Bank of Courtenay in the petition of Attorney-General George F. Shafer to have that bank as well as numerous others declared insolvent and receivers appointed as provided by an act of the 1923 legislature.

Mr. Lemke, as attorney, contends that the district court of Burleigh county, to which matters affecting all closed banks were referred by the supreme court, has no jurisdiction over the Courtenay bank and that the supreme court does not have original jurisdiction in the matter. First Assistant Attorney-General George Thorpe appeared before Judge Cooley to defend the petition. Under the law two general receivers are to be appointed by Judge Cooley, and the appointments probably will be made this week.

OVERRULED

Fargo, Sept. 5.—The question of whether the state supreme court has original jurisdiction in North Dakota will be settled by that court, it was revealed here today when Judge Cooley of Grand Forks overruled a demurrer by William Lemke, attorney for the defendants in the case of the Security State Bank of Courtney and Mr. Lemke announced he would appeal to the higher court. Demurrers filed by the Slope State Bank of Amidon and the Regent bank, which had been granted petitions to intervene also were overruled. The case was the outgrowth of efforts by Attorney-General Shafer to have the Security bank as well as others declared insolvent and receivers named.

An Official Statement by the Governor of South Dakota

On August 29, Governor McMaster, of South Dakota, issued the following statement:—

"At a meeting with Colonel Stewart, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and other Standard Oil Officials, held in Pierre this morning, Mr. Stewart expressed unqualifiedly the willingness of Standard Oil to comply with the wishes of the consumers of the State of South Dakota in so far as those wishes could be expressed and interpreted by the governor of this state. These Standard officials, although they contend that the present prices do not properly reflect the costs of production, refining and distribution, plus a reasonable profit, were willing, at my request, to do one of two things—raise the price of gasoline immediately in the State of South Dakota where it would represent a six and six-tenths cent reduction over former prices, or maintain, for the time being, sixteen cent gasoline in the State of South Dakota, using Mitchell as a base.

"After due consideration, the Standard Oil officials were asked by the governor to maintain the present price of 16 cents for the time being. I wish to accept full responsibility for this situation and state that Standard Oil, by deed and act, is working in fullest co-operation with the governor of this state and therefore can in no respect be blamed for 16 cents gasoline from this date.

"I realize that the independents who have viciously assailed and attacked me will raise bitter complaint against this condition. However, after due consideration and investigation, I wish to say that if the former gasoline prices of this state were excessive, the independents of this state were just as responsible for that condition and were just as guilty of taking excess profits as was Standard Oil.

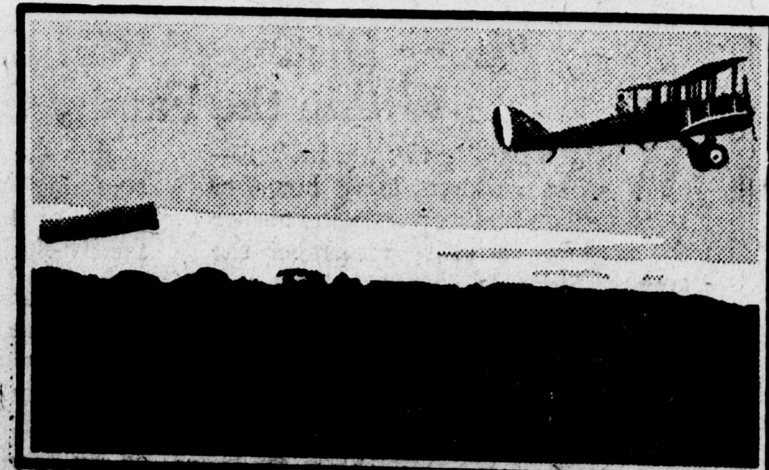

"At no time during the period which former gasoline prices prevailed did any independent of this state raise one objection or bring one complaint to this office in an effort to bring about any reduction in price but they were perfectly willing to profit to the fullest extent.

"I realize that all sorts of charges will be made against me because of this action, but in view of the fact that gasoline can be purchased at various refineries today for approximately seven cents a gallon, it will not work injury to the public cause if the Independents are forced for the time being to do business on a small margin of profit. There is no particular reason why the State Government should guarantee to the Independent Oil Dealers of this state, at least for the time being, fixed profits, especially in view of the fact that they were perfectly willing and were a party to take excessive profits from the people."

This clearly defines the position which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has maintained throughout this controversy.

Routing of "J B" Highway Started

Cando, N. D., Sept. 5.-Routing of the newly projected Jamestown highway was the chief business of the meeting here a few days ago of the directors of the Jamestown-Brandon Highway association.

Various delegations were heard in presenting claims to having the highway routed through their respective communities.

The route as established will begin at Jamestown, thence through Carrington, New Rockford, Sheyenne, Oberon, Minnewaukan, Brinsmade, Churches Ferry, Mazza, Canda, Rock Lake, Rolla, St. John, Killarney, Bossevain and Minot, ending at Brandon.

Constitution and by-laws were adopted. Markings decided on were "JB" in blue letters on a background of white. Suitable markings were ordered and the highway will be marked this fall.

It was also decided that to maintain the marking and provide for other public features, each town through which the highway passes will be assessed. It is estimated that from $800 to $1,000 yearly will be required. The markers will cost about $500.

ROUTING OF "J B" Highway Started

Cando, N. D., Sept. 5.-Routing of the newly projected Jamestown highway, was the chief business of the meeting here a few days ago of the directors of the Jamestown-Brandon Highway association.

Various delegations were heard in presenting claims to having the highway routed through their respective communities.

The route as established will begin at Jamestown thence through Carrington, New Rockford, Sheyenne, Oberon, Minnewaukan, Brinsmade, Churches Ferry, Maza, Cando, Rock Lake, Rolla, St. John, Killarney, Bossevain and Minot, ending at Brandon.

Constitution and by-laws were adopted.

Markings decided on were "JB" in blue letters on a background of white. Suitable markings were ordered and the highway will be marked this fall.

It was also decided that to maintain the marking and provide for other public features, each town through which the highway passes will be assessed. It is estimated that from $800 to $1,000 yearly will be required. The markers will cost about $500.

TO WORK IN LITHUANIA

Danville, Ill., Sept. 5.-In the little village of Westville, near here, lives Bruce Stulginskis, who appears destined some day to sit in the government councils of Lithuania, one of the new nations of Europe.

Stulginskis is the nephew of Aleksandros Stulginskis, who was elected president of the far away Baltic republic in June. He lives in the Lithuanian colony of Danville, is studying at the University of Illinois, and is preparing himself for a public career when he is graduated from college.

Bruce Stulginskis is the son of a Westville merchant, and since his father's death the Lithuanian president has been directing the boy's education. According to the plan, Bruce will go from the University of Illinois to the University of Berlin for a graduate course.

SAM JONES IN NO-HIT, NO-RUN HALL OF FAME

Yankee Pitcher Hurts Remarkable Game Against The Athletics

(By the Associated Press.)
Chicago, Sept. 5.—Sam Jones, the New York American's ball-tossing ace, wrote his name in large letters in the history of baseball yesterday by shutting out the Athletics in Philadelphia without a hit. The Yankees won, 2 to 0. An error by Scott on a grounder in the eighth and a pass to Galloway in the first detracted but slightly from an otherwise perfect record. Only three men in the history of modern baseball have kept the bases spotless through a whole game—Cy Young, Addie Joss and Charles Robertson.

Babe Ruth made but one hit in four times at bat and resigned the American League leadership in batting to Harry Heilmann, slugging Detroit outfielder, who smashed out to safeties in three times at bat. Heilmann is now leading with a percentage of .392, Ruth having .391.

In the National, Zack Wheat, Brooklyn veteran, replaced Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis as leading batsman. He is leading the Cardinal star by two points with a percentage of .384.

The New York Nationals and Cincinnati both won, staying the same distance apart, three and a half games, but Pittsburgh, beaten by the Reds, went back a full game, two behind Cincinnati. The Giants defeated Boston 3 to 0. The Reds trimmed the Pirates 2 to 1.

Washington took a 3-1 victory from the Red Sox in Boston.

The Chicago Nationals defeated St. Louis, 3 to 2. In Detroit the Tigers defeated Chicago, 5 to 2. Cleveland trimmed the Browns, 6 to 2.

Trick Bats Are Taboo in American League, Using Them Automatically Suspends Player

By NEA Service.
Chicago, Sept. 4.—The trick bat is taboo in the American League. Babe Ruth's four-piece bat which started all the agitation over the trick bats has extended to many other quarters. Ruth believed that his bat would pass inspection since it is made of hard wood, round, and within the proper dimensions.

The rules say the bat to be official must be made of wood, which is singular and not sections of wood. Ruth's bat is plural, made of four separate pieces glued together. It has been decreed that it will not pass muster in the American League.

That's final.

With Ruth's four-piece bat goes the plugged bat. This style bat is used by Kenneth Williams, slugger of the St. Louis Browns, as well as many other crack hitters in both major leagues.

Desiring to get a bat as large as possible at the desired point of contact, players have been having the bat factories make their bats to the desired dimensions. Such bats usually are a trifle too heavy.

In order to get them to the required weight, a hole is drilled in the center of the bat, removing as much of the wood as necessary to get the stick to a weight that best suits the batter. The bat is then plugged with a piece of wood or cork.

The plugging of a bat makes it possible for a player to get a much larger bat without being handicapped by the extra weight.

Several years ago, filling the bats with small nails was a popular pastime with the ball players. One player in order to get more drive into his bat drove about 100 steel victrola needles into his bat within a certain limited space, regarded as the best possible point of contact on the bat, when properly held.

The Ruth bat has started a war on trick bats in the major leagues. From now on all bats in the American League must be round, of one piece, of hard wood and conform to the required dimensions. The use of any bat that fails to come within the rules, will automatically suspend a player for five days without pay.

Since a great many National League players have been using four-section bats like that of Ruth, also the plugged variety of the Williams type, similar action will no doubt be taken as to the trick weapons.

good fast ball. However, it was nothing like the "swift" that Walter Johnson used when he broke in. He also had on tap a fairly good curve.

However, I have seen scores of pitchers break into the majors with far more stuff than did Gillenwater and fail. After the first few innings it was apparent to me that Gillenwater had control. Any time he was in the hole he seemed able to get the ball over the plate. All the young men did was shut out Boston 3 to 0, allowing only four hits.

Rather a remarkable feat for a "rookie" pitcher in his first start, even though it was recorded against a tailender.

THE next day I bumped into Ryan before the start of the game. I recalled what he had said about control. Using a young pitcher's best asset and told him that no better proof could have been offered than the exhibition put on by the White Sox rookie.

"THE trouble with most young pitchers breaking into the majors today is that they overlook the fundamentals of pitching, of which control is the very first lesson," continued Ryan. "Instead of trying to acquire control, many of them seek to invent some new freak delivery or spend time trying to learn how to throw the knuckle ball or the fade-away. After all, there is nothing like speed, curve and a change of pace for a pitcher, plus control. Few of the really great pitchers go in for the freak stuff. If the young pitchers in the minors who seek to make the big show would lay aside all their freak deliveries and get control, their curve and fast one would get them by and we would have much better pitching in the majors."

Puzzling Plays

THE PLAY
There are runners on first and second base and two are out. The batsman hits sharply to left field. The runner on second crosses the plate, while the runner on first reaches third base and the batsman second on the hit.

The runner originally on first base, in going from first to third on the hit, failed to touch second base. The slip was noticed by the second baseman of the team in the field, Alan the base umpire.

The second baseman called for the ball, touched first base, and appealed to the umpire for a ruling.

The umpire called out the runner who failed to touch second while advancing from first to third on the hit of the batsman. This makes the third out, retiring the side.

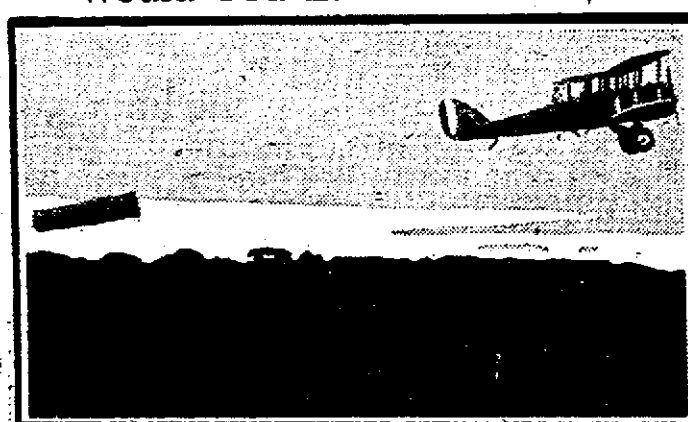

Does the run score? Now is the batsman's effort scored?

THE INTERPRETATION
When the runner on first failed to touch second base while advancing to third, he made a force play possible at second. When the ball was thrown there and the umpire ruled the runner out, it made a force play for a third out.

The rules state that no run can score on a play in which the third out is a force play. The carelessness of the base runner so made this play, therefore the run does not count.

In a like manner, the batsman who apparently made a two-base hit, loses his hit, as the rules state the batsman cannot be credited with a hit when his drive results in a force play.

Son of Hazen Man Declared One of Fastest Dash Men In The World

Rolf Harmsen, son of R. N. Harmsen of Hazen, may establish a new world's record in the hundred yard dash if he can cut his one defect, a slow start. His slow start is occasioned by his inability to hear the pistol shot, but if the gun is fired a few feet from Harmsen his sensitive skin can feel the vibration in the atmosphere.

J. Frederick Meagher, writing in The Chicago Herald and Examiner, tells of the Hazen boy as follows:

World athletic history was in the making when two underized but evenly matched sprinters took daily practice together more than twenty years ago in Washington, D. C.

The Georgetown sprinter, Arthur Duffey, was shortly to achieve deathless fame as the first human to travel 100 yards in 9.5 seconds. The other diminutive speed merchant was Alva Long, deaf-mute student of Alva Long's neighbor, Gallaudet College, the only institution of higher education for the deaf in the world. He might have starred in nearly equal measure with Duffey, but, discouraged by his inability to outrun his then comparatively unknown opponent, he retired from the track forever.

Becoming a teacher in the North Dakota State School for the Deaf, Alva Long adopted a peculiar hobby. "I'll discover and develop a boy to better Duffey's mark if it takes the balance of my natural life," he avowed.

For twenty years Long patiently experimented with every pupil prospect in the little state, and now at last his efforts are in fair way of meeting with success. His prize pupil is Rolf Harmsen, who did 9.4-5 in every start at Gallaudet College this spring and is entered in the national A. A. U. championships next week under the colors of the I. A. C.

Harmsen's starting form is so good that he has been practically "left at the post" in every start, sometimes having to overcome as much as four yards lost due to slowness in leaving the mark.

This four yards spells all the difference between 9.4-5 and 9.2-5 seconds, which would be a new world's record.

While this statement looks preposterous at first sight, an analysis proves it accurate. The 9.4-5 second sprinter covers approximately eleven yards per second, or slightly over two yards every fifth of a second. The loss of four yards at the start of a race, by a winner who finishes in 9.2-5, is practically the loss of 2.5ths of a second. Therefore it would seem that the new I. A. C. speedster—off to a perfect start at the top of his form—was capable of 0.9-2-5, or at least 0.9-5-10.

Coch Johny Behr is laboring with his deaf Dane every afternoon on Sage Field, and hopes to cure this one fatal flaw in a flawless flying machine on two legs. If the starter's gun is fired a few feet from Harmsen his sensitive skin can feel the vibration in the atmosphere as readily as normal men feel it through their ear drums, so deafness, per se, is no great handicap.

The deaf lad is 19, stands 6.1 and weighs 180 pounds. Although a handsome boy, when running his face is twisted into hideous grimaces as he covers the ground with gigantic leaps and bounds.

OBJECTS TO JURISDICTION

William Lemke Opposes Supreme Court Jurisdiction In Bank Matter

Judge C. M. Cooley of Grand Forks will hear arguments in Fargo today on the demurrer filed by William Lemke as attorney for the Security State Bank of Courtenay in the petition of Attorney-General George F. Shafer to have that bank as well as numerous others declared insolvent and receivers appointed as provided by an act of the 1923 legislature.

Mr. Lemke, as attorney, contends that the district court of Bismarck county, to which matters affecting all closed banks were referred by the supreme court, has no jurisdiction over the Courtenay bank and that the supreme court does not have original jurisdiction in the matter.

First Assistant Attorney-General George Thorpe appeared before Judge Cooley to defend the petition.

Under the law two general receivers are to be appointed by Judge Cooley, and the appointments probably will be made this week.

OVERULED
Fargo, Sept. 5.—The question of whether the state supreme court has original jurisdiction in North Dakota will be settled by that court, it was revealed here today when Judge Cooley of Grand Forks overruled a demurrer by William Lemke, attorney for the defendants in the case of the Security State Bank of Courtenay and Mr. Lemke announced he would appeal to the higher court.

Demurrers filed by the Slope State Bank of Amidon and the Regent bank of Devils Lake, which had been granted petitions to intervene also were overruled.

The case was the outgrowth of efforts by Attorney-General Shafer to have the Security bank as well as others declared insolvent and receivers named.

An Official Statement by the Governor of South Dakota

On August 29, Governor McMaster, of South Dakota, issued the following statement:—

"At a meeting with Colonel Stewart, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and other Standard Oil Officials, held in Pierre this morning, Mr. Stewart expressed unqualifiedly the willingness of Standard Oil to comply with the wishes of the consumers of the State of South Dakota in so far as those wishes could be expressed and interpreted by the governor of this state. These Standard officials, although they contend that the present prices do not properly reflect the costs of production, refining and distribution, plus a reasonable profit, were willing, at my request, to do one of two things—raise the price of gasoline immediately in the State of South Dakota where it would represent a six and six-tenths cent reduction over former prices, or maintain, for the time being, sixteen cent gasoline in the State of South Dakota, using Mitchell as a base.

"After due consideration, the Standard Oil officials were asked by the governor to maintain the present price of 16 cents for the time being. I wish to accept full responsibility for this situation and state that Standard Oil, by deed and act, is working in fullest co-operation with the governor of this state and therefore can in no respect be blamed for 16 cents gasoline from this date.

"I realize that the independents who have viciously assailed and attacked me will raise bitter complaint against this condition. However, after due consideration and investigation, I wish to say that if the former gasoline prices of this state were excessive, the independents of this state were just as responsible for that condition and were just as guilty of taking excess profits as was Standard Oil.

"At no time during the period which former gasoline prices prevailed did any independent of this state raise one objection or bring one complaint to this office in an effort to bring about any reduction in price but they were perfectly willing to profit to the fullest extent.

"I realize that all sorts of charges will be made against me because of this action, but in view of the fact that gasoline can be purchased at various refineries today for approximately seven cents a gallon, it will not work injury to the public cause if the Independents are forced for the time being to do business on a small margin of profit. There is no particular reason why the State Government should guarantee to the Independent Oil Dealers of this state, at least for the time being, fixed profits, especially in view of the fact that they were perfectly willing and were a party to take excessive profits from the people."

This clearly defines the position which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has maintained throughout this controversy.

SEES RIVALRY OF NATIONS KEPT IN CHECK

Hughes Tells Canadians of Need to Prevent Economic Disputes

WOULD COMPEL PEACE

Advises Permanent Body to Settle Differences Between U. S. and Canada

Montreal, Sept. 5.—Pressing economic rivalries of nations, like armaments, will be kept within reasonable limits by fair international agreements "at no distant day," Secretary Hughes declared last night in an address before the Canadian Bar association on "The Pathway of Peace."

The American Secretary of State asserted that "that things are possible if nations are willing to be just to each other" and, in a personal word to his Canadian audience, suggested the creation of a "permanent body of our most distinguished citizens" to act as a commission for the United States and Canada.

In discussing the subject of international relations in a broad way, Mr. Hughes said it was desirable to establish the law "to quicken the sense of the obligation of states under the law." He assailed "demagogues" and "pseudopatriots" who he said sometimes made it difficult for democratic governments to secure legislative approval for the mutual concessions necessary for settlement of important international questions, and he declared it was possible to carry "open diplomacy."

COUNTY SELLS CERTIFICATES AT A PREMIUM

Minnesota Loan and Trust Company Takes $25,000 of Short-time Obligations

CO. AGENT REJECTED

Haw Won't Agree to Man Named by Board—Tax Question Is Before Board

The Burleigh County Board of Commissioners today accepted the bid of the Minnesota Loan and Trust Company of Minneapolis for $25,000 of certificates of indebtedness issued under the law of 1922 legislation providing that counties and other subdivisions shall go on a cash basis. The certificates are issued in place of warrants. There were two bids, the C. B. Enckema Company of Minneapolis bidding par for the certificates, which bear 7 percent interest, and the Minnesota Loan and Trust bid par and a premium of $3. The rate of interest is that usually paid on warrants.

The certificates must be issued by October 1, it was provided in the bid, so that it is expected the county will receive the money by that time and then will be able to pay cash. Employees of the county were not paid September 1 because no funds were available and warrants could not be issued. The commissioners were pleased to get the bids, since many counties have been unable to sell the short term certificates.

The commissioners have received a letter from J. W. Haw, county agent leader of the state, declining to accept the commissioners' designation of Grant Palms, former county commissioner, as county agent for the state. The commissioners agreed to employ an agent providing Mr. Palms were appointed.

Mr. Haw said he had interviewed and corresponded with responsible taxpayers who object to Mr. Palms. Mr. Haw said that he was not opposed to appointing a Burleigh county man, and had no objection to appointing a man of long experience and without college training.

He said that he did not believe "the spirit of the law is complied with when one public body vested jointly with other public bodies in the employment of certain officials insists upon the appointment of one man or none."

The state and federal government participating in the payment of a county agent's salary and expenses.

Mr. Haw asked the commissioners to advise whether they would take the initiative in seeking another man for appointment.

Today the commissioners continued hearing representations of various firms cited by F. O. Hellstrom for alleged evasion of taxes, including representatives of the Standard Oil, International Harvester Company, and the Russell Miller Milling Company. The decision was largely technical with respect to the persons who are alleged to have evaded payment of taxes on corporate excess, and goes to the definition of corporate excess and the application of the tax laws to it.

Notice was served sometime ago by some local taxpayers that the district court would hear on September 4 for an order restraining the commissioners from employing Mr. Hellstrom to inquire into tax matters. Judge Jansons was out of the city, being on a visit in Iowa, and the matter had not been presented today. He is expected to return within a few days.

MRS. WM. PYE PIONEER WOMAN DIES ON COAST

Bismarck Woman Succumbs After Lingular Illness at Age of 92 Years

Mrs. William M. Pye, pioneer resident of Bismarck, died at the home of her son, S. M. Pye of Los Angeles, Calif., Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 28 at the age of 92 years, after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Pye was one of the few women up to the time of her death who came to Bismarck a half century ago. Until a few years ago she had resided here and taken an active part in the development of the city life.

She was one of the organizers of the Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church and took a leading part in the life of the community during her long residence.

Until about six years ago Mrs. Pye had been in excellent health and was always ready to greet her friends from North Dakota when they called upon her in California, but in January 1917 she fell, sustaining a broken hip from which she never recovered, but was bed-ridden until her death. During her years of failing health she was devotedly cared for by her son, S. M. Pye and his family.

Mrs. Pye was born in New York City, but lived for a time in Fairbault and Alexandria, Minn., before coming to Bismarck in 1873. Her husband engaged in various activities for the next 25 years, being a dealer in coal and reselling the products of the Sims-Egbert Mine which was owned by C. W. Thompson, the pioneer contractor and builder of the capitol in 1883. Mr. Pye was one of the earliest citizens of the state to popularize the use of lignite coal.

Mrs. Pye took an active part in the work of the Presbyterian church and was a leader in all that pertained to its welfare under the guidance of Father Sloan, the first pastor of the Presbyterian church. She was a friend of the pioneer women and the hospitality of the Pye home was proverbial.

During the '90s Mr. and Mrs. Pye were absent for several years, but returned to Bismarck about 1899 and remained here until Mr. Pye's failing health caused them to move to California in 1907. Shortly after their arrival on the coast Mr. Pye died, being survived by his wife and two sons, William M. formerly of Fairbault and S. M. Pye, better known as Manley Pye who for 20 years was one of Bismarck's best known residents, conducting the Pioneer Fire Insurance company of S. M. Pye and company for several years, and serving as assistant cashier of the Capital National Bank. After its consolidation with the First National bank he acted as cashier, resigning in 1906. For a number of years past he has been residing in Hollywood where he has kept open house for visitors from North Dakota. During that time his mother has made her home with him and his family.

The deceased was laid to rest beside her husband in Rosedale cemetery, Los Angeles, Calif., Thursday.

Acting as pallbearers were the following old time friends from North Dakota: Dr. Moore, Charles Rathman, Jamestown, R. N. Brown, formerly associated with Mr. Pye, Asa Patterson, former attorney from Bismarck, J. C. Anderson, Cleve Hicks, of Alexandria, Minn.
